

U.S. Given 3 Choices On How to Reach Mars

By HARRY F. ROSENTHAL Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon soon will make a decision on the nation's goals in space, choosing from three alternatives—including two that would put Americans on Mars in the 1980s.

All three choices, made public Wednesday by the White House, foresee development of a space station and a reusable earth - to - orbit shuttle vehicle.

Under the first and most expensive option, the annual cost would climb steadily from the current $4 billion to between $8 billion and $10 billion for each fiscal year from 1970 through 1980 for a total of $78.2 billion. The Mars landing would be in 1982.

The second and third alternatives would keep the annual cost at $4 billion the next two fiscal years, rising to a peak of $5.7 billion in 1976. The second option, which envisions a Mars landing in 1986, would then rise to a peak of $8 billion a year in the early 1980s, with an 11-year total of $57.5 billion. Option three would require a funding of $5.1 billion in the first 11 years.

"We presented a balanced program," said Vice President Spiro T. Agnew—a member of the four-man task group. "My personal preference is option two which allows clear acceptance of a Mars landing in 1986 but leaves us free to be flexible in unmanned precursor flights."

The other three members said they had not yet given the President their personal choice, although all said any of the three would be acceptable.

Dr. Lee DuBridge, the President's science advisor and a member of the task group, said "in all three options there are from the scientific viewpoint very important benefits."

The report shunned two extremes—dropping all manned flights after the three-flights-a-year Apollo program runs its course—or starting a crash program to put men on Mars in the 1970s.

Death Won't be Asked Murder, Conspiracy Trials Ordered for 6 Green Berets

SAIGON (AP) — Six arrested members of the Green Berets, including the former commander of all U.S. Special Forces in Vietnam, will be tried before a general court-martial on charges of murder and conspiracy.

The U.S. Army, announcing this tonight, said the government will be prepared to start the trial in about three weeks and that "all cases will be treated as not capital." This means the death sentence will not be called for.

Others Still Held
In all, eight Green Berets have been held in connection with the slaying of a South Vietnamese suspected of being a double agent.

Charges against two of the men, a warrant officer and a sergeant, "are being held in abeyance pending the trial of Congress Told: 'Marijuana Laws Are Too Tough'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Drug abuse is primarily a medical and social problem made worse by severe laws with harsh mandatory penalties, say two leading federal experts.

The institute's head, Dr. Stanley F. Yolles, said that in terms of ruined lives, the penalties for using marijuana are far worse than the substance they were meant to control.

The present law—which provides sentences up to 40 years for some offenses—has no provision for probation or parole in any cases except a first-offense conviction for possession of narcotics, marijuana or dangerous drugs.

In a strongly worded statement, Yolles said: "It is extremely unfortunate that by the continued, exaggerated emphasis

Nixon Tells All Nations To Join Hunt for Peace

Blames Hanoi in U.N. Address

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — President Nixon appealed to the 126 members of the United Nations today to use their best diplomatic efforts to move Hanoi into serious Vietnam peace negotiations.

In a broad policy declaration, he told the U.N. General Assembly that North Vietnam was wholly responsible for the stalemate at the Paris conference.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko was among the 80 or so foreign ministers in the blue and gold hall for the President's first appearance before a global forum. When Nixon concluded his 30-minute speech, Gromyko joined in the applause which sounded through the jammed chamber.

No Surprises

The only sour note was a boycott of the address by the Cuban and Albanian delegations. Neither has diplomatic relations with the United States.

Mrs. Nixon, dressed in a pale green suit, listened attentively to her husband's address from a seat in the VIP section at the right of the rostrum. She sat with Mrs. Charles W. Yost, wife of the U.S. chief delegate.

Springing no surprises in his first speech to the world organization, Nixon again went on record as favoring sober and serious negotiations with the Soviet Union on the Middle East, arms race curbs and other topics.

Talk With Red China

And, he said, "Whenever the leaders of Communist China choose to abandon their self-imposed isolation, we are ready to talk with them in the same frank and serious spirit."

Looking toward broad international cooperation in areas ranging from population control and space exploration to a counterattack against aircraft hijackings, Nixon asserted:

"... Let us press toward an open world—a world of open doors, open hearts, open minds—a world open to the exchange of ideas and of people, and open to the reach of the human spirit—a world open in its search for truth, and unconcerned with the fate of old dogmas and isms—a world open at last to the light of justice, and reason, and to the achievement of that true peace which the people of every land carry in their hearts and celebrate in their hopes."

Private Meetings

The President, accompanied by Mrs. Nixon, was making a quick roundtrip to New York from the capital, but staying long enough to meet privately during the afternoon with a number of visiting foreign ministers, and to entertain U.N. diplomats at an evening reception.

No formal conference with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko was scheduled.

In discussing Vietnam, Nixon once again said "our one limited but fundamental objective" there is to ensure South Vietnam's right of self-determination without outside interference. On that point, the United States will not compromise, he stated. As for lack of progress in Paris, he said:

"The missing ingredient so far has been the willingness of the other side to talk on any terms other than those that would predetermine the result and deny the right of self-determination to the people of South Vietnam."

Once the other side is genuinely willing to reach agreement, he said, "The practical solutions can readily be found."

Then he voiced his appeal. "This makes it urgent that the U.N. members who have long taken an active interest in peace in Vietnam now take an active hand in achieving it."

"In the name of peace, I urge all of you here—representing 126 nations—to use your best diplomatic efforts to persuade Hanoi to move seriously into the negotiations which could end this war."

The Soviet Union was taken to task by Nixon, for not yet agreeing to negotiations on limitation of strategic arms.

"The date we proposed for the opening of talks has passed for lack of response," he said. "We remain ready..." The United States had suggested an early August beginning.

Serious Problem

Picturing the arms race as becoming a more serious problem with the passage of time, Nixon conceded complex issues are involved. But he said: "We are prepared to deal with them seriously, concretely and purposefully—and to make a determined effort not only to limit the late President Ho Chi Minh could quickly wreck any such attempt at de-escalation.

But Nixon's hopes, however slender, were quickly blasted as enemy troops resumed operations when the cease-fire ended. Last week officials here denied any signal had been directed toward the enemy for which the U.S. expected a response Tuesday, however, in explaining President Nixon's latest troop withdrawal decision.

White House sources said this week a major reason for the suspension was to make clear to the new leadership in Hanoi that everything in the war is negotiable except the right of self-determination for the South Vietnamese people.

Encouragement

The primary cause of the suspension was military, Nixon felt, that if the enemy intended to prolong the cease-fire indefinitely he wanted to encourage it rather than take the initiative with new bombing raids which

Deadlock Continues

Hanoi Raps Pullout Plan

PARIS (AP) — North Vietnam today denounced President Nixon's planned withdrawal of an additional 35,000 American troops from South Vietnam as a new but vain attempt to deceive U.S. public opinion.

The only way to peace is a "rapid, total and unconditional" withdrawal of all American forces, it said.

Col. Ha Van Lau, acting chief of Hanoi's delegation at the Vietnam peace talks here, said the exact number to be withdrawn was impossible to determine because of the Pentagon's own "contradictory figures" of U.S. troops in Vietnam.

In any case, Lau told the 34th weekly session of the deadlocked talks, the new withdrawal is "trifling" compared with the half-million Americans still in Vietnam.

Nixon's decision, he added, "is in fact aimed at prolonging the U.S. military occupation and prolonging the war."

"By withdrawing this new dribble of troops, the Nixon administration can in no way deceive American public opinion. In the contrary, it will meet with the ever-stronger indignation of the American people, including many in U.S. political circles, and it will further strengthen the American people's struggle for ending the war of aggression in Vietnam and for the prompt and total repatriation of the U.S. troops."

Lau again blamed Nixon for the Paris deadlock and accused the President of continuously intensifying the war.

Campaign Pledge
Recalling Nixon's election promise to end the war, Lau declared: "Eight months have elapsed since Mr. Nixon officially stepped into the White House. People in the United States and elsewhere wonder what he has done to bring an end to the U.S. war of aggression in Vietnam, a war which has cost the United States $125 billion and the lives of hundreds of thousands of young Americans and has by far surpassed the Korean War in terms of time, money and casualties."

According to U.S. figures, 38,593 Americans have been killed in Vietnam since Jan. 1, 1961.

U.S. negotiator Henry Cabot Lodge, the second speaker at the meeting, read into the record President Nixon's Sept. 16 statement announcing the new 35,000-man reduction in U.S. forces.

The statement "makes clear our desire to negotiate a peaceful settlement of the war in Vietnam," Lodge said. "We have gone far in opening the door to negotiations which could bring peace."

Original Jewelry on Display

BY JAMES AUER, Post-Crescent Sunday Editor

Standards of craftsmanship in the creation of original jewelry have improved noticeably over the past decade, according to E. Dane Purdo, organizer of the Invitational Jewelry Exhibition currently on view at the Worcester Art Center on Lawrence University campus.

Purdo, an associate professor of art, who organized a similar show just 10 years ago at Milwaukee-Downer College, where he was then a faculty member, observed that the 150 pieces of jewelry in the show are, in the main, more carefully designed and finished than were their counterparts of a decade ago.

"I feel that the greatest change that has come about is that there is a much greater interest in richness of materials, three-dimensional quality and articulated textural surfaces," Purdo said.

"I think it's an indication of how crafts are becoming more important in this country. The use of gold, of course, reflects society's affluence."

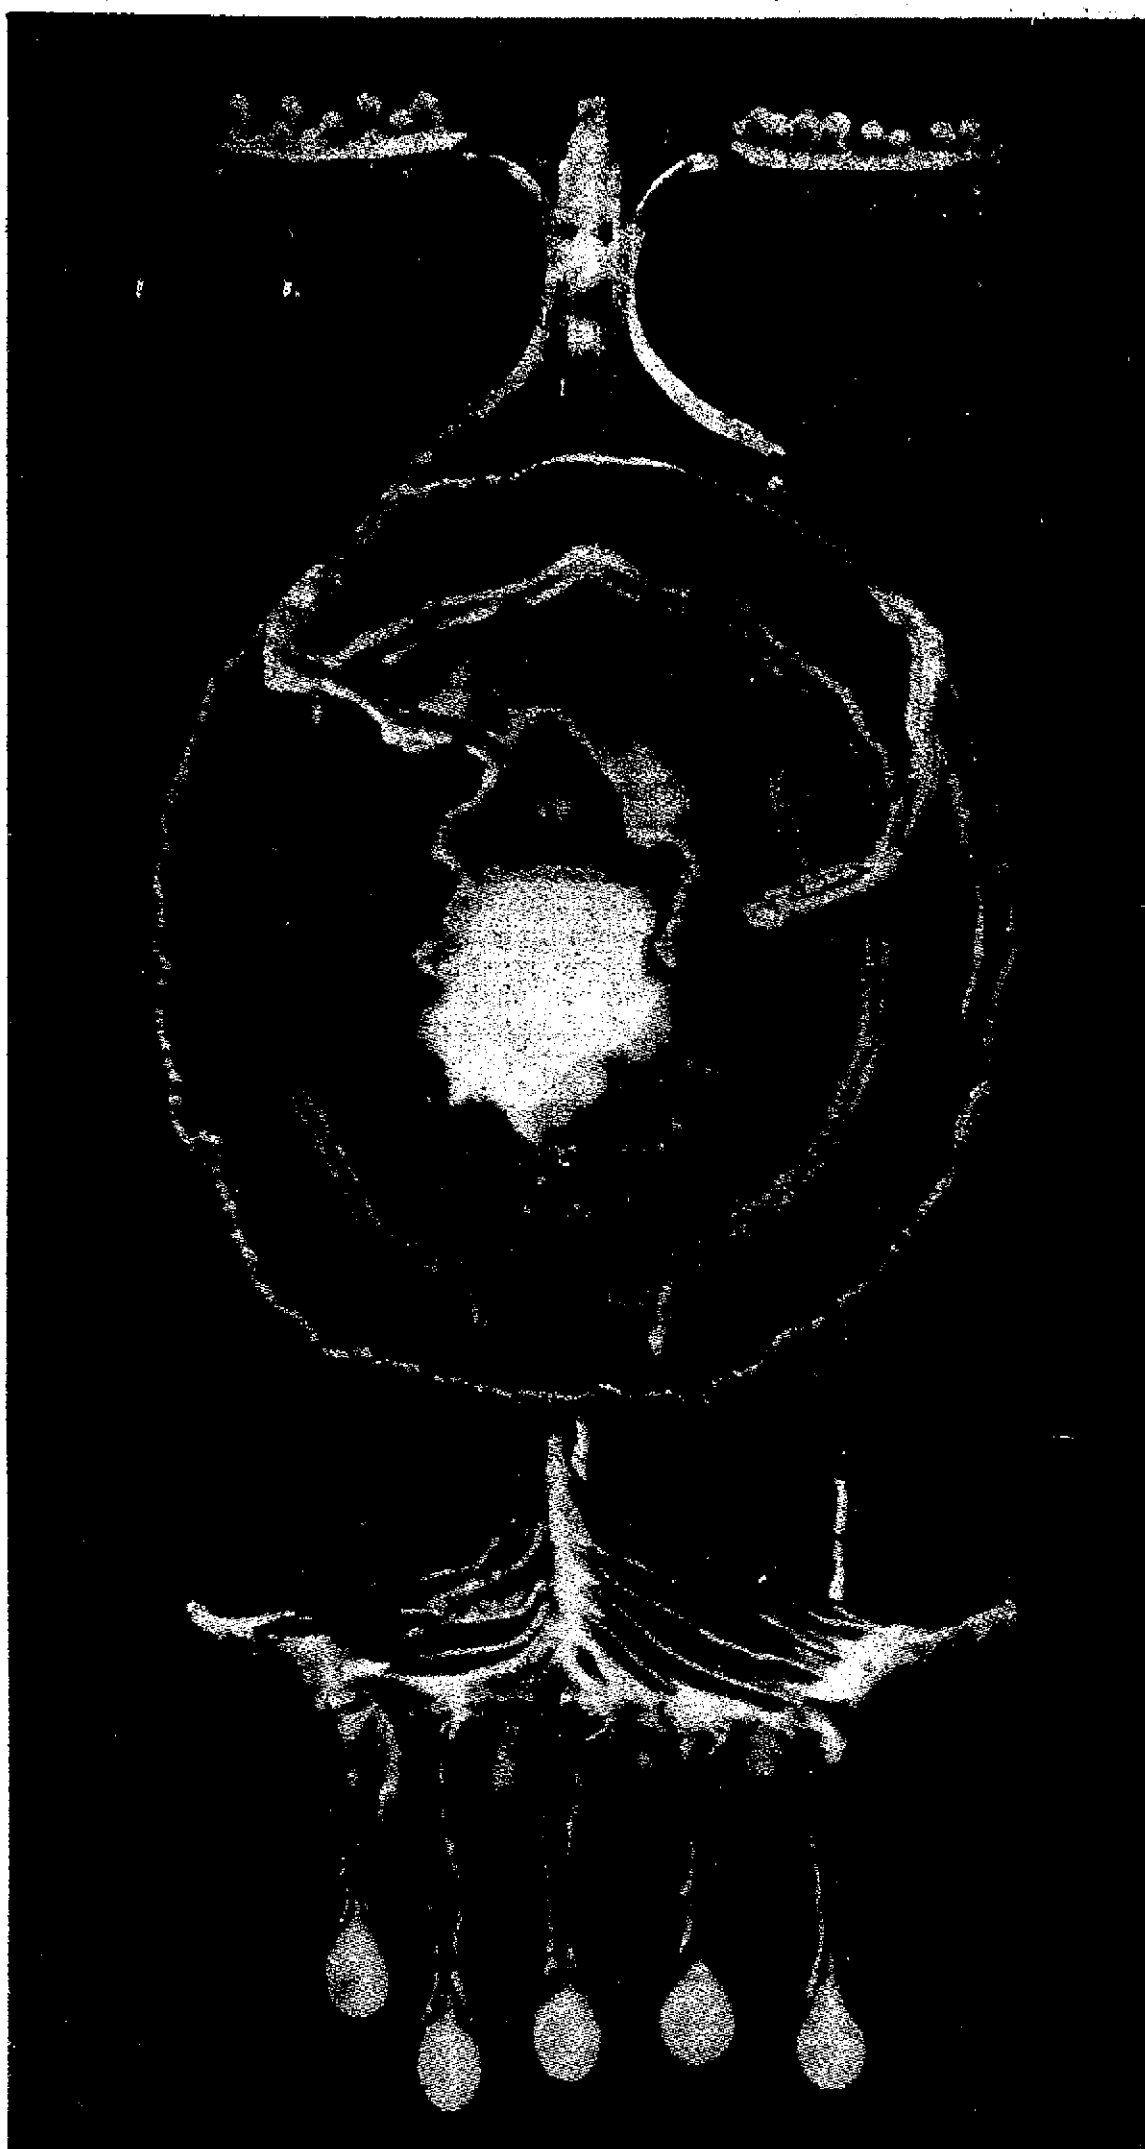

In all, 50 artists from New York to California are represented in the show, which continues at the Worcester through Oct. 19. In general, he said, they rely on traditional goldsmithing techniques, which they employ in a "contemporary" manner.

The visitor to the Worcester, will see examples of sawing, piercing, soldering, forging and lost wax casting, as well as the techniques of gold granulation and reticulation.

"Each craftsman," said Purdo, "is outstanding in his own technique or the direction his work is taking."

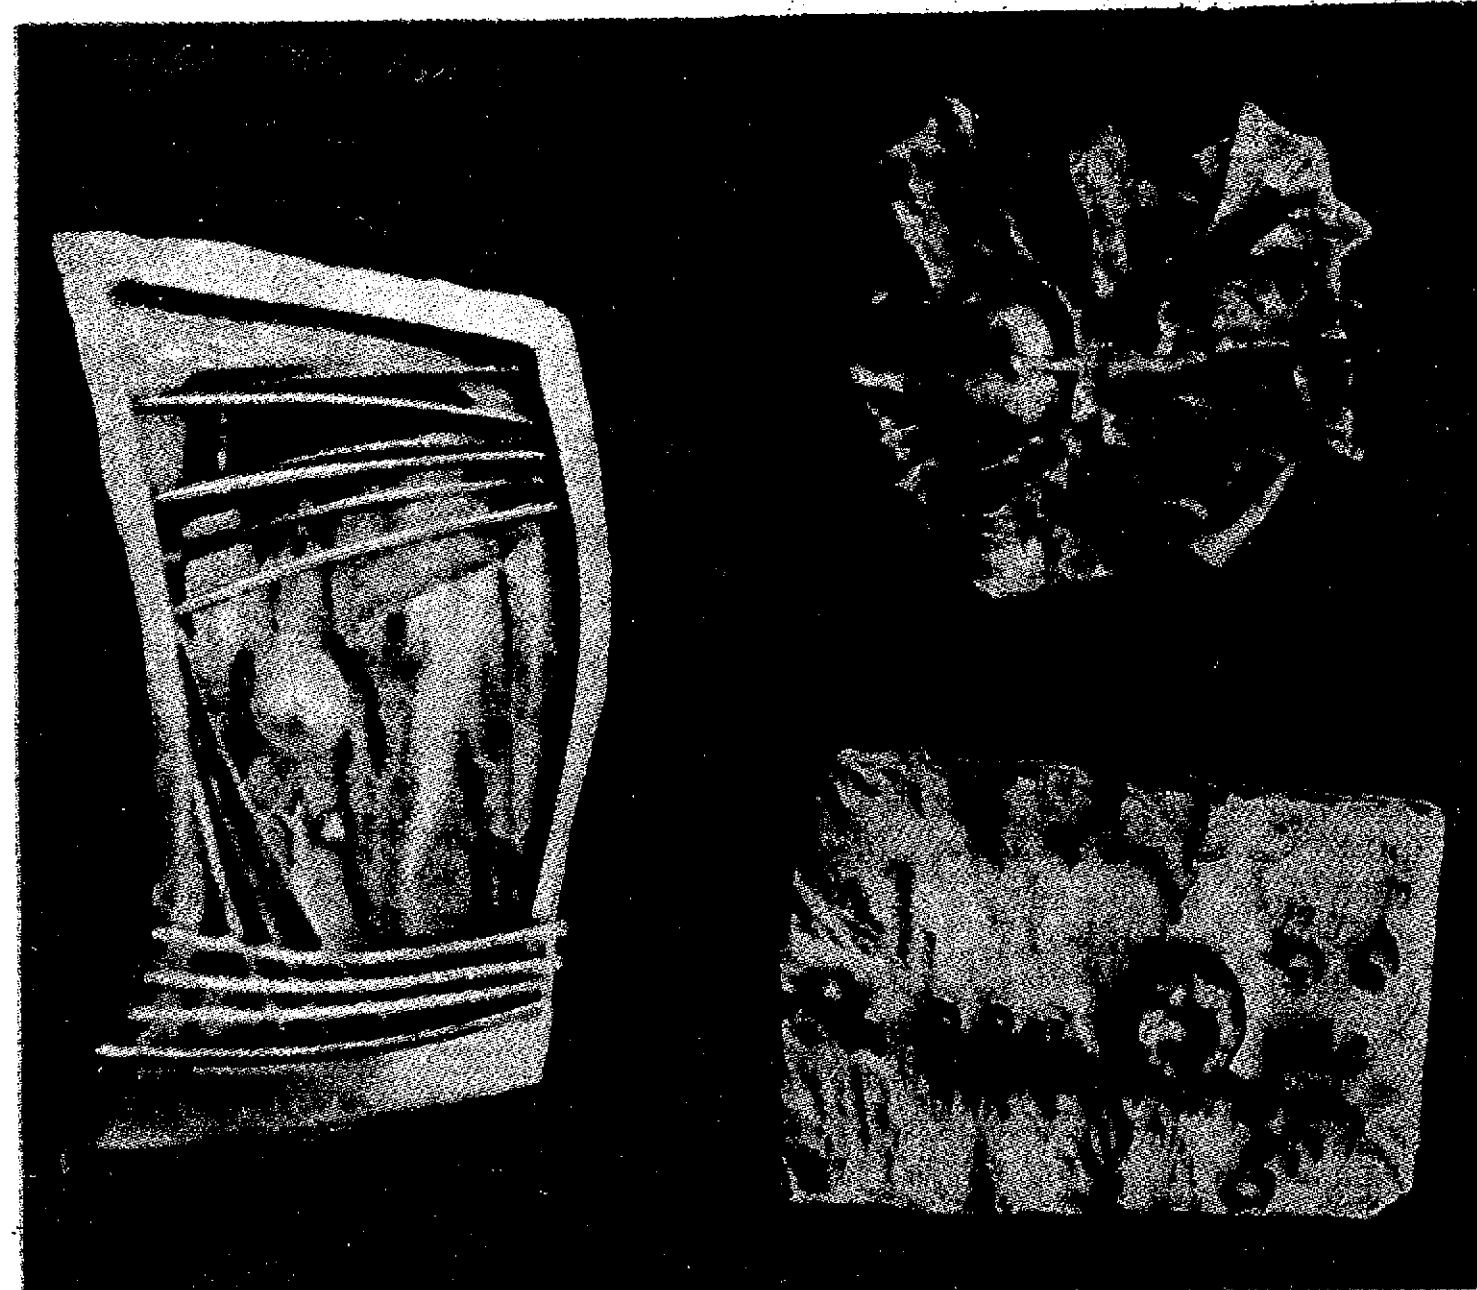

Some of the styles in the show are elegant — others, individualistic or experimental.

Principle of electroforming is utilized in this piece of jewelry on display with the others on this page at the Worcester Art Center. Stanley Lechtzin, Philadelphia, first fashioned it of silver, then electroplated with gold. Also used, were agate and 96 Biwa pearls.

Bob Ebendorf, Athens, Ga., crafted this silver pin, incorporating a quaint old tintype-like photograph under a magenta circle of plastic. There are more than 150 pieces of original jewelry displayed at the exhibition at Lawrence University.

Here are three more pieces of jewelry from the invitational exhibition: left, a gold-plated, over sterling silver, pin by Olaf Sködgfors, Philadelphia; upper right, 14-karat gold pin with pearls and coral by Martha Leipeiger, Austin, Texas; lower right, reticulated 14-k. gold pin with quartz crystal by Heikki Seppa, St. Louis, Mo.

Marjorie Schick, Pittsburgh, Kansas, is represented by this brass bracelet or arm band.

Resia Schor, New York city, contributed the pendant, above, with gold, silver, emeralds and diamonds.

In all, says Purdo, there is "something appealing to everyone."

Preparations for the show, which opened Wednesday, began last June, when Purdo sent out invitations to a list of contemporary American craftsmen, asking each to submit three pieces of jewelry. There was only one refusal, Purdo said.

Reminders were mailed out in August, and the jewelry has been coming in ever since.

Materials employed in the jewelry include gold and silver, brass, copper, bronze, stainless steel, plastic and even feathers — reminiscent of the decorations of the ancient Aztecs. Prices range from under $100 to over $2,000, with most of the items in the lower range.

One need not, Purdo emphasized, be a millionaire in order to afford an example of fine, custom-made and custom-designed jewelry. Unlike many kinds of art, he said, jewelry has an intrinsic worth in its precious metals and precious stones, in addition to the value of its design and craftsmanship.

In conjunction with the jewelry show, Purdo has arranged an exhibit of his own work, and the techniques used in making jewelry, in a display cabinet in the Lawrence University Library. The display explains many of the effects achieved by the jeweler whose work is exhibited in the nearby art center.

Proceeds will be used for the Service Circle Emergency Fund, and for the St. John High School Silvercrest Home for Girls at Neenah.

St. John High Class of 1959 Plans Reunion

LITTLE CHUTE — Members of the class of 1959 of St. John High School will gather Saturday evening at the Knights of Columbus, Kaukauna, to mark their 10th graduation anniversary. The event, which is planned around the theme, "Around the World with the Class of '59," will begin with a 6 p.m. cocktail hour. Dinner will be served at 7 p.m.

Special guests will be Mr. and Mrs. William Fitzpatrick, the Rev. Leroy Hogan, Sister Annette, Sister Honora and the Rev. James Feely.

Serving on the planning committee are Keith Versteeg, chairman; Thomas J. Verhagen, correspondence; Jerome B. Berghuis, finance; Timothy To usey, entertainment, and Mrs. Paul VanDerHeyden and Mrs. Vincent Bemowski, decorations, invitations and guests.

25th Anniversary Marked by Class of 1944

Members of the class of 1944 of Kimberly High School met Saturday evening at Oakwood Hills Supper Club to mark the 25th anniversary of their graduation. The Rev. Robert Vandenberg, Glenmore, a member of the class, acted as toastmaster at the buffet dinner attended by 55 persons.

Members danced to records from the '40s, looked at posters laden with pictures and mementos of school days and reminisced about school days.

Serving on the committee were Marvin Schness, Art Santikyl, Ray Keyzers, Mrs. Joseph Van Daalwyck, Mrs. Gordon Gehrman and Jack Courchane, Madison.

Plant Pots Make Decorative Urns

When buying plants to set out in the garden, save the clay pots. Soak them in hot soap detergent suds and then use a well-lathered brush to scrub them really clean. Rinse, let them dry, and then decorate them with spray paint or designs cut from self-adhesive plastic or colored tape. The design possibilities are unlimited and the newly decorated "urns" are most attractive for house plants or harmonizing artificial flower arrangements.

Badger State Participants Talk to Legion Auxiliary

The opportunity for actual participation in the processes of government and an appreciation of the duties and responsibilities of citizenship are the greatest benefits of attending Badger Girls and Badger Boys State, according to Appleton participants, Nancy Hering, Betsy Koller and Tom Hanstedt.

Speaking Monday evening to members of the American Legion Auxiliary Unit 38, the three related their experiences at the two programs sponsored annually by the American Legion.

Miss Koller, who also attended Girls Nation in Washington, D. C., told of visiting many points of interest and meeting government officials while in the nation's capital.

Children Apt to Mimic Their Elders

Next time you want to keep children out of mischief, give them some adult "tools." Good water-play materials include an old washtub or pail, a scrub-brush and wash-board. Give them plenty of soap or detergent, too, so that they can swish up heaps of bubbles. The bigger the container, the more father-it will take — and the more fun. You'll be amazed at how little tots like to play with things that are proportioned to adult size.

West opened the five of spades, and East won the first trick with the queen. South took the second trick with the ace of spades and led the jack of diamonds.

East held off the first diamond but had to take the second diamond with his ace. Now South had nine easy tricks: five diamonds, one club, two hearts and a spade. South actually managed to take a tenth trick, but this was unimportant.

A dull hand, to Dr. Watson. Can you see why it disturbed Sherlock Holmes? Decide for yourself before you read on.

East missed his chance to make a brilliant lead. After winning the first trick with the queen of spades, East should return the king of clubs to force out dummy's ace. Then East can refuse the first diamond.

Your Problems Husband Makes Outrageous Request

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Change the name of the city I would die if anyone knew about this.

Our daughter, Linda, age 21 and a college senior, plans to be married when she graduates next June. Linda and Tom, her fiancé, were seated around the dinner table last night. Also present was our 19-year-old son and our 16-year-old daughter. We were discussing plans for the wedding. Linda said she had always wanted to be married in the traditional white wedding gown and veil. Her father said, and I quote, "Are you entitled to that privilege?" Linda turned red and replied, "What do you mean by that?" Her dad answered, "Are you a virgin?" Linda shot back, "What is this, the Spanish Inquisition?" Her dad replied, "If I pay for a white wedding gown I want to make sure I am not being short-changed."

Linda became indignant and shouted, "Do you want an affidavit from our family doctor?" Her dad replied, "Yes."

Landers

Both Linda and her fiance left the table. I was on the verge of tears. Our two other children were baffled.

What do you think of this? Hurry your comment. — Wrecksville USA

Dear Wreck: I think your husband's request is outrageous. Try to persuade him to unbraided his brains and give the girl a white wedding gown with no further discussion.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband has been pampered, spoiled and catered to all his life. In the past ten years he has had affairs with four women that I know of. He always says he is sorry and promises to behave himself.

He's at it again. Divorce is out. What shall I do, Ann? Please don't tell me to take up bowling. I did that last time and it didn't help. — Anchorage Dilemma

Dear Ann: Many factors should be considered. Are there children? Is he a good father? Is there enough mon-

Jingo's for Debbie, Unsure About Thurber

Fans of Late Cartoonist Need Better Material, Framework Too Stereotyped

BY JINGO

That two such dissimilar figures as James Thurber and Debbie Reynolds should arrive on network television in the same week and over the same local channel is a tribute to the diversity that makes the American entertainment business tick. Both of these new shows display promise as Jingo notes in the following reviews:

My World and Welcome to It. (6:30 p.m. Mondays, Channels 5 and 4) After a decade of struggle and many a disappointment (according to script consultant Melville Shavelson), the stories and cartoons of the late James Thurber have finally made it to the home screen. "My World and Welcome To It" is more or less a standard situation comedy — complete with impractical father, strong-minded mother and precocious rimpopet — but with a difference. Periodically, the cartoonist-hero (played by William Winheimer, was long associated dom) goes into a reverie which is illustrated with a Thurber sketch or animated cartoon is simply too stereotyped to moustachioed caddy, out to satisfy dyed-in-the-wool Thurber fans. Jingo will watch this show with considerable interest, in the hope that, now that the principal characters have been introduced, the scripts can develop somewhat more individualistic — and consistent — style.

The Debbie Reynolds Show. (7 p.m. Tuesdays, Channels 5 and 4) Debbie may not, as one of our fellow critics has observed, be another Lucy, but her show is, nevertheless, clever, entertaining and attractively produced. And well it should be.

Debbie Quits New TV Series

Actress Objects to Commercial on Cigarettes in Show

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Debbie Reynolds quit her first television series almost before it began, objecting to the presentation of a cigarette commercial during its premiere.

"I will not be a party to such commercials," she told the National Broadcasting Co. Wednesday. "We're rather mystified," said NBC-TV Vice President Mort Werner. A network spokesman said "Miss Reynolds' own people" had known about the commercial since March.

The actress said she discovered it Tuesday night, the first commercial in the premiere of her "Debbie Reynolds Show," and, "I was shocked." At noon Wednesday she quit.

"I consider cigarette commercials directly opposed to health and well being," she said. "This gesture is a complete breach of my understanding and agreement with NBC."

But the 36-year-old actress said she'd finish a shooting schedule today, leaving the network 10 complete shows of 25 scheduled. The NBC spokesman said the 10 probably would be aired.

Reactions to the premiere were mixed. Daily Variety said the series

Jack Gould of the New York Times wrote that the attempt to create a second "I Love Lucy" appears "destined to fail . . . The parallel between the shows is so close as to be embarrassing."

"There is nothing dreadfully wrong with NBC's new 'Debbie Reynolds Show' except that we have seen it all before," said AP Television-Radio Writer Cynthia Lowry.

Valley Aires To Sing for McKinley PTA

Movie on Service Project Part of Evening's Program

The Valley Aires Barbershop Chorus will present the program for the McKinley Parent - Teacher Association at 8 o'clock tonight.

The group not only will present a sing-out, but members also will show movies on the International SPEBSQSA project, namely the support of the Institute of Logopedics at Wichita, Kans. The Institute is for handicapped persons, particularly those with speech difficulties and the hard of hearing.

The Land O'Lakes District, to which area barbershoppers belong, have adopted a youngster named Steven. He recently was released from the Institute and now is attending school in his home area with children his own age. A second child sponsored by clubs in the district still is at the Institute.

The SPEBSQSA service slogan, "We sing that They Shall Speak," will be illustrated through the movie on the work of the Institute of Logopedics.

'Time of Man' Focuses on Evolution

BY TV SCOUT

7-3 (Channel 2-7) — The Natural History of Our World: The Time of Man focuses on the 100th anniversary theme of the American Museum of Natural History in New York, "Can Man Survive?" It's a look at the evolution of man, from prehistoric times to today's perilous existence. Rare historic films are shown here, including shots of the Roy Chapman Andrews expedition in 1923.

6:30-7:30 (Channel 5) — Daniel Boone returns for its sixth season and introduces the "King of the Road," Roger Miller, in his TV acting debut. He's quite effective as Jonny Appleseed, a peace-loving man who doesn't approve of parents giving children rifles for birthday presents.

7-7:30 (Channels 11-9) — That Girl opens the season with a two-part spoof of Mission: Impossible. In Mission Improbable, Marlo Thomas is conned by the very nice lingerie manufacturer for whom she is modeling into becoming an industrial spy.

7:30-8:30 (Channel 5) — Ironside's third season opener is much more contrived than usual and not up to the standards set by this good series. However, good acting helps, from the regulars as well as Joe Campanella as a confidence man and Beah Richards as Mark's Aunt Ruby, who thinks she is helping the FBI and winds up swindled out of her savings account.

7:30-8 (Channels 11-9) — Bewitched returns with a new husband for Samantha in the likable person of Dick Sargent and a cute story. Seems Tabitha, upset because she thinks her expectant parents don't like girls (they seem to want a boy), zaps herself into Jack and the Beanstalk.

8-10 (Channels 2-7) — The Thursday Night Movies has "The World, The Flesh and the Devil," a 1959 release about the only three survivors in the world meeting in New York. They are Harry Belafonte, Inger Stevens and Mel Ferrer. It's an unusual picture and gets credit for attempting to be thoughtful and different.

8:30-9 (Channel 5) — Dragnet 1970 has quite a moving story, a look at two policemen's wives, one young and one a veteran police wife, waiting at the hospital for the results of surgery on their husbands, shot down by a pair of hold-up men.

9-10 (Channel 5) — Dean Martin slides down the pole for the fifth season as The Dean Martin Show welcomes guests Goldie Hawn, who does "Star" and duets with Dino and Dom De Luise. For himself, Dom appears as the inept magician, Dominick the Great. Dennis Weaver, leaving behind his Chester limp and Gentle Ben, turns song and dance man with "Ya Got Trouble."

Police Chief to Speak at First CPTA Meeting

KAUKAUNA — Police Chief William Nagel will show a movie on drugs and speak on drug abuse at the initial meeting of the new season for the Christian Parent-Teacher Association of Trinity Lutheran School.

Plans will be discussed on a Blue Star Program for the city and the role of parents in the program, according to John Urban, president of the organization. Second grade mothers under the direction of Mrs. Paul Krueger will have charge of refreshments.

Some Unsure of Sex

GREAT BEND, Kan. (AP) — The computer at the Barton County junior college analyzed enrollment cards turned in last week and 55 per cent of the students are male, 43 per cent are female and 2 per cent are undecided.

Antigo Milk Products Co-op

PC FARM EDITOR

Stockholders of the Antigo Milk Products Cooperative face the decision tonight whether to sell their organization, valued at $1,300,000, or merge it with a large multi-state cooperative.

They will be asked to decide whether to sell their cooperative to Consolidated Badger Cooperative, Shawano, or accept a merger with Associated Milk Producers Incorporated (AMPI), a sprawling Texas to Wisconsin cooperative now being developed in Wisconsin.

Conflict caused by the opposing proposals could block approval of either move. Any merger or acquisition must have approval of holders of two-thirds of all preferred stock and two-thirds of all common stock. A negative vote by 25 per cent of either group of stockholders would halt either move.

Offer Made Tuesday

Representatives of the Shawano-based cooperative offered to purchase the assets of Antigo Milk Products Tuesday during a meeting with the stockholders at the American Legion Hall in Antigo.

The Antigo cooperative has 475 members and handles an estimated 110 million pounds of milk each year. A 1968 audit valued the cooperative at $1,300,000.

George Ruppel, general manager of the Shawano cooperative, said Consolidated Badger will pay $150,000 in a four-year span for 100 per cent of the value of all preferred stock, and assume all liabilities. The remaining assets would be resolved at 63 per cent, to offset cost of the liabilities.

DeWain Washatko, president of the board of directors of the Antigo Milk Products Cooperative, said the preferred stock represents 11 per cent of member equities held by stockholders.

The Antigo Cooperative's board of directors has recommended approval of the AMPI merger.

Washatko said the merger with AMPI would boost competition between the Antigo Cooperative and Consolidated Badger.

A resolution was passed two years ago by Antigo stockholders backing investigation of all mergers.

Washatko said the directors previously recommended the AMPI proposal because they "have every reason to believe that we can generate higher milk prices through increased markets in AMPI."

The Consolidated presentation Tuesday was made, "after several meetings with Mr. Ruppel," said Washatko.

Neil McBeth, sales manager for Consolidated Badger, said the purchase by his company would include the equipment, land and buildings owned by the cooperative.

McBeth said the plant "would operate in the best interests of the producers if our offer should be accepted."

"We would offer them a market for their milk, he said, noting that acquisition of the cooperative does not include a marketing agreement linking present producers to the Consolidated Badger operation.

"Over the years we've acquired a good many plants," he said, listing increased volume and concentrated milk supplies as reasons for proposed purchase of the Antigo cooperative.

"This is not the first time we have discussed being more than neighbors with the Antigo Milk Cooperative," said McBeth, adding, "we've had these discussions over the course of several years."

Kaukauna Meeting Friday Night

Fate of Bond Issue Lies With Fiscal Control Board

KAUKAUNA — The fiscal control board of the Kaukauna School District will meet at 7:30 p.m. Friday in the school to vote on a proposed $1.8 million bonding resolution approved earlier by the common council on a 9-1 vote.

The proposed bond issue would cover construction of a 22-classroom northside elementary school, a four-room addition to Electa Quinney School and purchase of property on Island Street, adjacent to the Senior High School, to permit expansion of physical education facilities.

At an earlier meeting the fiscal board requested the board of education to meet with architect George Narovec, designer of an original northside school which was to have cost $1.5 million but was never built because a referendum on the bonding proposal was defeated, to determine whether cuts could be made in the school to help reduce costs.

3 Opponents

Opposition to the $1.5 million bond issue for the original school plan and the present proposal for a $1.8 million issue has been voiced mainly by three men — Buchanan Town Chairman Joseph DeBruin, Vandenberg Town Chairman George Kroes, and Kaukauna Ald. Russell Dix (4th).

Opponents feel the cost is too high although per square foot costs submitted by the board of education are in line with those estimated by other architects who desire to design the school.

Based on equalized value, the fiscal control board represents 620 votes. State law requires a two-thirds vote of the board to approve a bonding resolution, so 413.33 votes are needed to pass, according to City Atty. Donald Green.

The City of Kaukauna controls 457 votes, each alderman having slightly over 45 votes. Should Dix continue to oppose the resolution, it would require votes from representatives of outlying areas to approve the resolution. Dix and representatives have warned there may be another referendum if the fiscal board approves the bonding resolution.

Monkey Wrench Fires Bullet, Wounds Youth

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Eight-year-old Clinton Barrett was wounded in the leg Wednesday by a bullet fired from a monkey wrench, police reported.

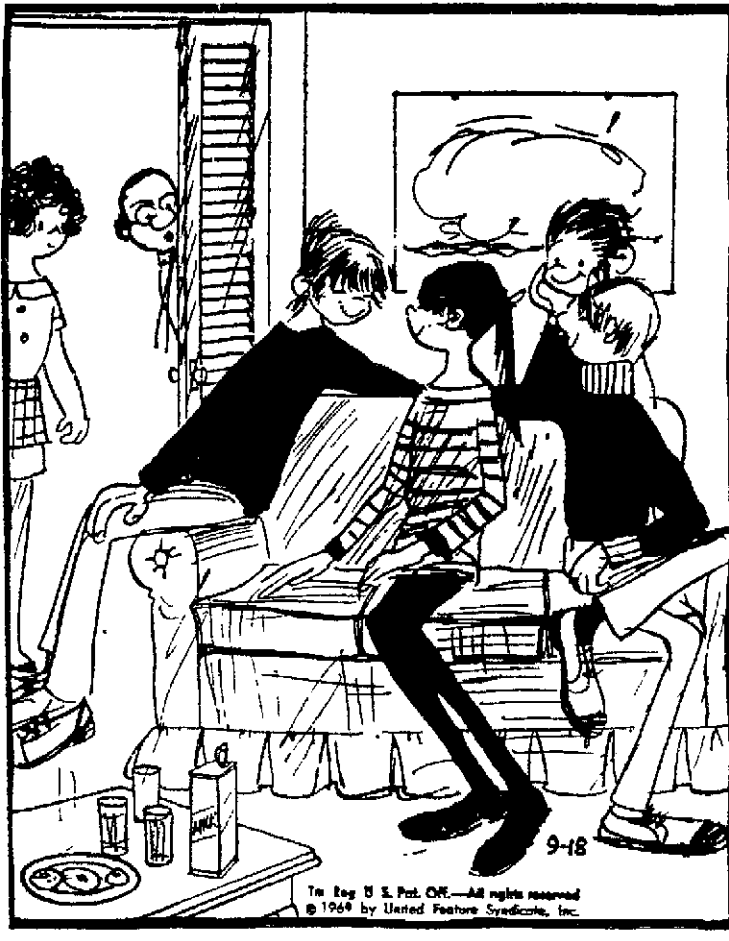

Investigators said the child found a cartridge, clamped it in the jaws of the wrench and began pounding with the wrench on the steps in the rear of his home. The cartridge went off.

Three Brothers Win Class Offices At Hortonville

HORTONVILLE — When elections for new class officers were conducted recently at Hortonville High School, three brothers were among the victors — two as presidents of their respective classes, and the third vice president of his senior class.

They are Eric, Dean, and Kirk Pingel, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Pingel, route 1, Skyline Heights, Appleton, and the eldest of seven children.

Eric, 17, enters class leadership for the first time as senior vice president, but both Dean, 15, who is sophomore president, and Kirk, 13, president of the freshman class, held class offices last year. Kirk was eighth grade president and his older brother served as freshman secretary.

All three boys also are active in sports and out for football at the present time. Dean also excels in track.

The Pingels have four other potential leaders coming up: Susan, 11, Todd, 8, Vanessa, 5, and Ryan, 3. Their father is a shipping clerk at Manhattan Rubber in Neenah and Mrs. Pingel is employed at Nino's.

Youth Fellowship To See 'Rock' Film

The problems of a rock and roll group trying to make it big in Europe is the theme of a film, "Downbeat," which will be sponsored by the Fox Cities Christian Youth Fellowship, at 7:30 p.m. Saturday at Jefferson School, Appleton.

Singing and special music is included in the program after the showing of the full-length color movie. The program involves youths from throughout the Fox Cities.

Admission is free and open to the public.

Mark Steidl New President of Sing Out Unit

Mark Steidl, Xavier High School student, was elected president of the Sing Out, Fox Cities unit of the Up with People movement.

The group met Wednesday for a potluck supper and recognition meeting at Sabre Lanes. Parents of members and citizens who have served the organization were guests.

Retiring president of the year-old organization is Michael Hahn. Sponsor of the group is the Optimist Breakfast Club of Appleton.

Other new officers are Robert Kemps, Xavier student, vice president; Shelly Davis, Appleton High-West, secretary, and Ann Wildenberg, St. John High School, Little Chute, treasurer.

Whatever the present condition of your lawn don't let this month's get away from you!

Now that summer is over there is a temptation to say — "The lawn needs improving. Next year I must do something about it."

Make no such mistake. The ideal time to do something is late summer, and early fall. The soil is warm but nights are cooler. The natural tendency of grass to tiller (grow additional blades) can be encouraged by fertilizing. Seed germinates more readily. Nature herself is on your side and you have everything going for you.

If your lawn looks thin and dried up . . .

It is remarkable how quickly it will respond to watering and proper feeding. And not only will Turf Builder restore color; it will encourage new vigorous growth. If you would like to introduce some vigorous new grass plants now is a good time to seed-in Windsor.

If you've got a weedy looking lawn . . .

Since many weeds will persist through winter to plague you next year, it's best to clear them out right now with Turf Builder Plus 2. This is a combination weed-and-feed that costs little more than straight Turf Builder. In two sizes $7.95 and $14.95.

Important: Plus-2 and new seed don't go together. If seeding now, use straight Turf Builder and postpone weed control until spring.

If you're going to make a new lawn . . .

You may wish to take this timely opportunity to use Windsor, the improved variety of Kentucky bluegrass. But whichever kind of Scotts seed you choose, your investment is unreservedly guaranteed.

If your lawn is pretty nice as it is . . .

Remember that there is no more important feeding than the one your lawn gets in the fall.

If you use Turf Builder you can put it on any time. And because of the unique way it is made, its nutrients can't be wasted, can't be leached away. Your lawn will be control-fed.

Council Action Kills Joint Safety Building

Hopes Dim for Buying Courthouse

Chances for Appleton and Outagamie County to share a safety building died at high noon today, as a result of common council action Wednesday night.

And, meanwhile, a proposal for the city to buy the present county courthouse and annex shows only faint signs of life after aldermen refused to take immediate action on it at the same meeting.

Both proposals had come from Ald. John Ayers (12th), chairman of the council's public safety committee and former chairman of the defunct city-county safety building committee.

Ayers explained to the council Wednesday he had suggested the lease arrangement to the county board's public property committee after it became apparent a joint financing and construction proposal was hopelessly mired. The committee gave the city until noon today to agree to the leasing plan or to reject it.

Too Expensive

Ayers told the council in a letter that leasing over a 10-year period would cost the city $1,170,000, which he termed excessive. He recommended rejecting the idea. The council voted 12-6 to receive and file Ayers' letter.

The result was failure to reply by what Ald. Glenn Thompson (13th) called the "high noon deadline," in effect rejecting the lease plan. While saying failure to get together with the county on a safety building would be "doing an injustice to the taxpayers," Thompson complained he had drawn a virtual blank in efforts to "learn what's going on."

Barbs were thrown at the county board several times for "secret meetings," including one held Monday night by the county public property committee with Ayers present. Ayers said he was unaware until afterwards that the meeting, held in a private office, was secret.

He added only three aldermen had attended an earlier meeting with the county group at city hall, though he had announced it at a council session.

Accuses County Board

Ald. Walter Kalata (2nd) argued that the council had repeatedly endorsed a joint effort, and he accused forces on the county board of attempting to avoid cooperation but make it appear the council was to blame.

Ald. John Steidl (18th) agreed. "In straight language, I think we should tell the county to go to hell," he declared.

In an effort to salvage some thing from the months-long effort, Ayers proposed the resolution offering to buy the courthouse complex for city use.

But his pleadings for immediate approval of the resolution were turned aside when aldermen refused to suspend council rules in a voice vote lopsided with "noes." Instead, the proposal will go the normal route through the board of public works and plans commission.

By that time, Ayers warned, the county board will be proceeding with plans to build an independent jail and law enforcement addition at the courthouse. Once the county is committed to making the $1.4 million investment, the likelihood of selling the courthouse complex becomes faint, Ayers said.

He explained in his resolution that the courthouse complex Turn to Page 3, Col. 2

Picture of Boyhood Froehlich Culturally Deprived?

Assembly Speaker Harold Froehlich of Appleton is rapidly creating the impression that he was an underprivileged kid through his comments on the study of urban problems being conducted by the Republican committee he set up.

Froehlich said Tuesday that he was "brought up on the wrong side of the tracks" in Appleton, wherever that is, and is already familiar with the problems of the needy.

The comment was made at a Milwaukee session held to study urban needs.

Wednesday Froehlich dwelt on his lack of cultural advantages as a youth, when he said counties should eliminate costs instead of asking the state to help with urban problems.

"In terms of priorities," Froehlich said, "these cultural programs don't compare with other needs. I grew up without a zoo all my life."

Assemblyman Kenneth J. Merkel, R-Brookfield, chairman of the committee and a member of the John Birch Society, had engaged in debate with Milwaukee County Executive John Doyne, who says he plans to fight for the needy, prior to Froehlich's remark.

Merkel told Doyne that local governments should reduce their welfare programs in accord with the Republican-controlled Legislature's cutbacks in state assistance to counties.

"Fight for People"

"I'm not going to tell a mother that she is going to have to feed her child for less than 22 cents a day," Doyne said. "I'm going to stand up and fight for these people."

Merkel said counties should make arrests for child abandonment in an effort to cut down welfare costs.

"The Legislature, Merkel said, "made a decision that welfare costs were getting out of hand" and expected counties to agree.

If counties plan to continue welfare at existing levels in the absence of state aid, he told Doyne, "you will have to take the brunt yourself."

"We're going to take the full brunt," Doyne said, noting that recipients affected by the Legislature's decision are being switched by many counties to programs financed from local taxes.

Kaukauna Man Wins Release From Army

Court Order Frees Objector After Draft Board Refusal

A 23-year-old former Kaukauna man, who said he was a conscientious objector but was inducted into the U.S. Army anyway, gets his release Friday, it was learned today.

Pvt. Kenneth Grissman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Grissman, 227 E. 10th St., was inducted Aug. 7, following nearly a year of appeals to the local and state draft boards. He is stationed in Fort Dix, N.J.

U.S. Dist. Judge James A. Coolahan signed a writ of habeas corpus freeing Grissman from the Army but Fort Dix authorities said he would not be released until Friday. The Turn to Page 3, Col. 3

Union to be in Appleton Single Conference of Methodists to Form

Wisconsin's three United Methodist conferences will become one this weekend in Appleton, uniting 162,000 members in 600 local congregations into a single administrative unit.

Bishop Ralph Taylor Alton, Madison, former past of First United Methodist Church, Appleton, will have a special liturgy, entitled, "Beyond Expectations," during the celebration of union at Lawrence Chapel.

That celebration also will include the declaration of union of the Wisconsin, the East and the West Wisconsin conferences into one body, which will be known as the Wisconsin Conference.

Preceding the service of union, the group will receive, discuss and vote on recommendations of the rules, world service and finance, minimum salary, petitions to general conference, board of ministry, building funds and ministerial relations.

This gathering will mark the move from 10 to 8 districts, the election of new officers and launching of a new program, all to be effective Jan. 1.

More than 800 ministerial and lay delegates are expected to attend, with additional hundreds coming for the special service celebrating union.

A "Celebration of Beginnings," with the Rev. Roland Ferch, pastor, Emmanuel Church, Appleton, as liturgist, will open the conference at 10 a.m. Friday.

Assisting Bishop Alton with the celebration of the union at 10:45 a.m. Saturday will be the Rev. Kenneth Engelman, pastor, First United Church, Appleton.

Valley Inefficiencies Revealed Rising Medical Care Costs Make Treatment a Luxury

BY ARLEN BOARDMAN
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

With rising hospital costs threatening to make proper medical treatment a luxury, it is imperative that a close, hard look be taken at ways to get the most for the dollar spent.

This was the view of a preliminary Fox Valley Council of Governments (COG) area-wide health study released last week which pointed out present inefficiencies in the Oshkosh to Kaukauna corridor.

The study indicated that $62.5 million is spent annually for personal health care for the region. Indirectly, this is determined by hospital construction, equipment and service costs.

So if medical facilities and equipment are provided in a more efficient manner, the patient's wallet should benefit.

Not Efficient

This region is far from efficient in many areas, the study indicated in calling for a regional approach to bring efficiency and coordination to health care.

One of these areas is utilization of hospital beds. The study indicated that probably 350—or 20 per cent of the total hospital beds—are being used by persons who don't require hospitalization but have no where else to go.

These people could be serviced in a nursing home or by home care, both less expensive than hospital beds but in far too short supply.

While hospital beds would cost about $50,000 apiece to construct today, nursing home beds can be built for $25,000. Likewise, a hospital's annual operating cost choose the hospital that best meets his need, he concluded.

There are other economic considerations—whether the equipment's value to patients would be greater than additional hospital beds, the cost and availability of skilled persons to operate the equipment and how the new treatment fits into the total treatment picture of the hospital.

Hospital beds versus nursing home beds and equipment purchases are only two of many areas where a regional health organization could help ease medical costs in the region, the study indicated.

There is a multitude of other complex medical services, many relatively new, which fit into the total personal health picture and should be utilized to maximum healthful results as well as economic value, the study said.

Urging the regional group, the study concluded: "It is obvious that working out an equitable way to make the decisions will be difficult. It is also obvious that the savings to be realized by doing so can be very large."

The COG study, presented to a group of business, industrial and medical representatives which financed the probe, indicated the personal health care crisis is national in scope. Total private and government expenditure for health and medical care were $5 billion in 1959 but have skyrocketed to $50 billion in 1968.

Hospital bed costs per patient have increased 400 per cent since 1949, the study indicated, while the consumer price index rose only 60 per cent during the same period.

Failure to Force Fugitive Fathers to make support payments was the claim leveled at county law enforcement authorities this morning as Outagamie County welfare clients silently picketed outside the courthouse. The welfare rights group also planned to appear at the home of Wisconsin Assembly Speaker Harold Froehlich, R-Appleton, to protest cuts in welfare payments in the recently adopted state budget.

Buckley Leads Opposition VTE-12 Bonding Wins City Council Support

While Mayor George Buckley leads an attempt to petition for a referendum to defeat a vocational school bond issue, the city council is on record favoring the bonding.

In a surprise maneuver Wednesday night, a group of five aldermen led the 11-7 vote supporting the plans of the Vocational, Technical and Adult Education District 12 board to issue bonds to raise up to $6 million in construction and equipment funds.

After the roll call results were announced, Buckley derided the action. "For those who voted 'no,' I think the matter will probably go to a referendum anyway. Let the people decide," the mayor commented.

During debate, Ald. Norman Beyer (20th) asked what bearing the resolution would have on the proposed bond issue, and Buckley replied none.

Ald. Walter Kalata (2nd) said he had never opposed vocational education, but has "been at odds with the way the state legislature set up the funding." He complained that vocational districts have taxing powers over cities, without the councils having a voice in the levies.

Ald. Al Stoegebauer (4th) said the measure should be given to a committee for study, "and not have something like this thrown out to us tonight where we don't know what the heck we're doing."

Knowles Pleads For Welfare

$33 Million Package Awaiting Action in State Legislature

MADISON (AP) — Gov. Warren P. Knowles pleaded with Wisconsin legislators today to "offer a helping hand to those in need" by approving his $33 million welfare and urban help package.

In a statement to the Legislature's Joint Finance Committee, Knowles said that his program provided "the handles to insure that able bodied men and women are moved from the welfare rolls to payrolls."

The statement, read by Knowles' executive secretary Paul Hassett, said that "the vast majority of welfare cases are situations in which the family bread winner is incapacitated for reasons of health, or unemployed for reasons beyond the control of the welfare recipient."

The program calls for expenditures to families with dependent children, the model cities program, the Marquette medical school, and the job training programs.

The governor's program would restore items the Legislature dropped in adopting the state's $1.56 billion two-year budget.

The revenue package attached to the measure calls for tax hikes totaling $36 million. The measure would increase personal, corporate, beer and liquor taxes.

Eau Claire Officials Look At Downtown

About 25 Eau Claire businessmen and city officials arrived in Appleton this morning for talks with city and Chamber of Commerce representatives and a firsthand look at the downtown development.

A luncheon at the Conway Motor Inn was scheduled for noon for discussion of development programs to follow. Mayor George Buckley, Appleton Area Chamber of Commerce Manager Donald Stone, Assistant Manager Louis Micheln, and other city officials were to participate.

The large entourage then was to embark on an on-foot tour of College Avenue, downtown parking facilities, the Gimbels construction area and other projects.

The Eau Claire group, members of the city's downtown development association, are seeking ideas for rejuvenating that northern Wisconsin city's declining central business district.

"They're going to look and learn about our downtown development program," commented Micheln.

He noted other groups have toured the downtown in recent years but this will be the largest.

County Shows $74 Million Increase Outagamie Property Values Jump

Property values in Outagamie County jumped 9 per cent last year, the biggest single year increase since a complete reappraisal was conducted by the state four years ago.

Equalized value of all real estate and personal property in the county stands at $887,541,400, an increase of $74,042,570, according to figures presented to the county board this morning by the state division of assessments.

Equalized value is considered the estimated market price of the property.

The increase from 1967 to 1968 had been $46.6 million, or 6 per cent.

The $74 million hike in property values far exceeds state estimates made a year ago when they predicted an annual increase averaging about $50 million.

Real estate values continue to spiral although the increase in raw land has slowed somewhat. Value of all real estate in the county was set at $771,475,400, climbed from $27.1 million last year to $37.7 million this year.

The significant gains, however, were made in the villages rather than in the rural townships, as has been the pattern the last decade.

The Village of Combined Locks continued to show phenomenal growth, with its real estate values climbing more than 48 per cent. Despite a slight drop in personal property valuation, the total value of the property in Combined Locks climbed from $27.1 million last year to $37.7 million this year.

As a result of Combined Locks' growth, much of which was the result of expansion at Combined Mills, Inc., the eight villages in the county now represent 15.21 per cent the total county value, an increase of almost one per cent.

The 20 townships represent 26.03 per cent of the county's total, an increase of one-fourth of one per cent, while the four cities, in dropping slightly more than one per cent, still contain 58.76 per cent of the county's value.

Buckley's Veto Against Sewer Firm Stands

Council Lacks Votes To Hire Company Over Objections

With two members absent, the city council failed Wednesday by four votes to override Mayor George Buckley's veto of a previous vote to hire American Pipe Services, Inc., to televise city sewers this fall.

The mayor came out on the short end of an 11-7 ballot, but with a 15-vote, three-quarters majority needed to reverse his veto, Buckley was the winner anyway.

Buckley objected to hiring the firm, he explained in his veto message, because while working for Appleton before, American Pipe hired the city's public works director, an engineer and an office secretary. If hired again, Buckley said, "they would no doubt continue their personnel raids on our department of public works."

Aldermen favoring hiring the firm, he explained in his veto message, because while working for Appleton before, American Pipe hired the city's public works director, an engineer and an office secretary. If hired again, Buckley said, "they would no doubt continue their personnel raids on our department of public works."

23 Lost From Forces About To Leave War

SAIGON (AP) — Two U.S. Marine regiments to be withdrawn from Vietnam before Christmas today reported 23 of their men killed and 58 wounded in close-range fighting along the demilitarized zone.

Marines from the 3rd and 4th regiments of the 3rd Division were attacked twice Wednesday by North Vietnamese troops near the craggy peak called the Rockpile, four miles south of the DMZ.

Some of the fighting was hand-to-hand after the North Vietnamese troops smashed into the night camp of a company of about 150 Marines from the 3rd Regiment.

a tour feasible again for another 100-150 years.

"All three options will enable us to hold on to our (space) team—indeed give them a major challenge," said NASA administrator Thomas O. Paine, the third member of the group.

"The continuing extension of man's abilities into space . . . can be achieved through a sufficiently large, multi-manned long-lived space station module," the report said.

"In order to support the station and its subsequent additions, efficient transportation to and from earth is required . . . therefore, an earth-to-orbit shuttle must be developed."

By assembling a number of individual station modules together in orbit, the report continued, a permanent space base of large size can be launched with existing Saturn vehicles.

Later there would be a space station in polar orbit around the moon, with a new reusable landing stage—a space tug—capable of staying on the moon with three-to-six man teams.

Finally, the same tug could land complete space station modules on the moon "as the building blocks of a permanent lunar surface base" using a nuclear vehicle capable of making many round trips between the moon, shuttling crews, payload and propellants.

Manned expeditions to Mars in the 1980s would employ the same basic methods.

The fourth task group member, Air Force Secretary Robert Seamans, said most Defense Department requirements were classified but that the department is interested in the possibility of the space transport system.

Congress Told Drug Penalties Are Too Tough

sis on the supposed dire evils of marijuana smoking, we make it extremely difficult to tell people what the real risk of use of specific drugs are.

"A youngster who smokes one marijuana cigarette is not a dope fiend, even though misguided individuals in the past have made this association."

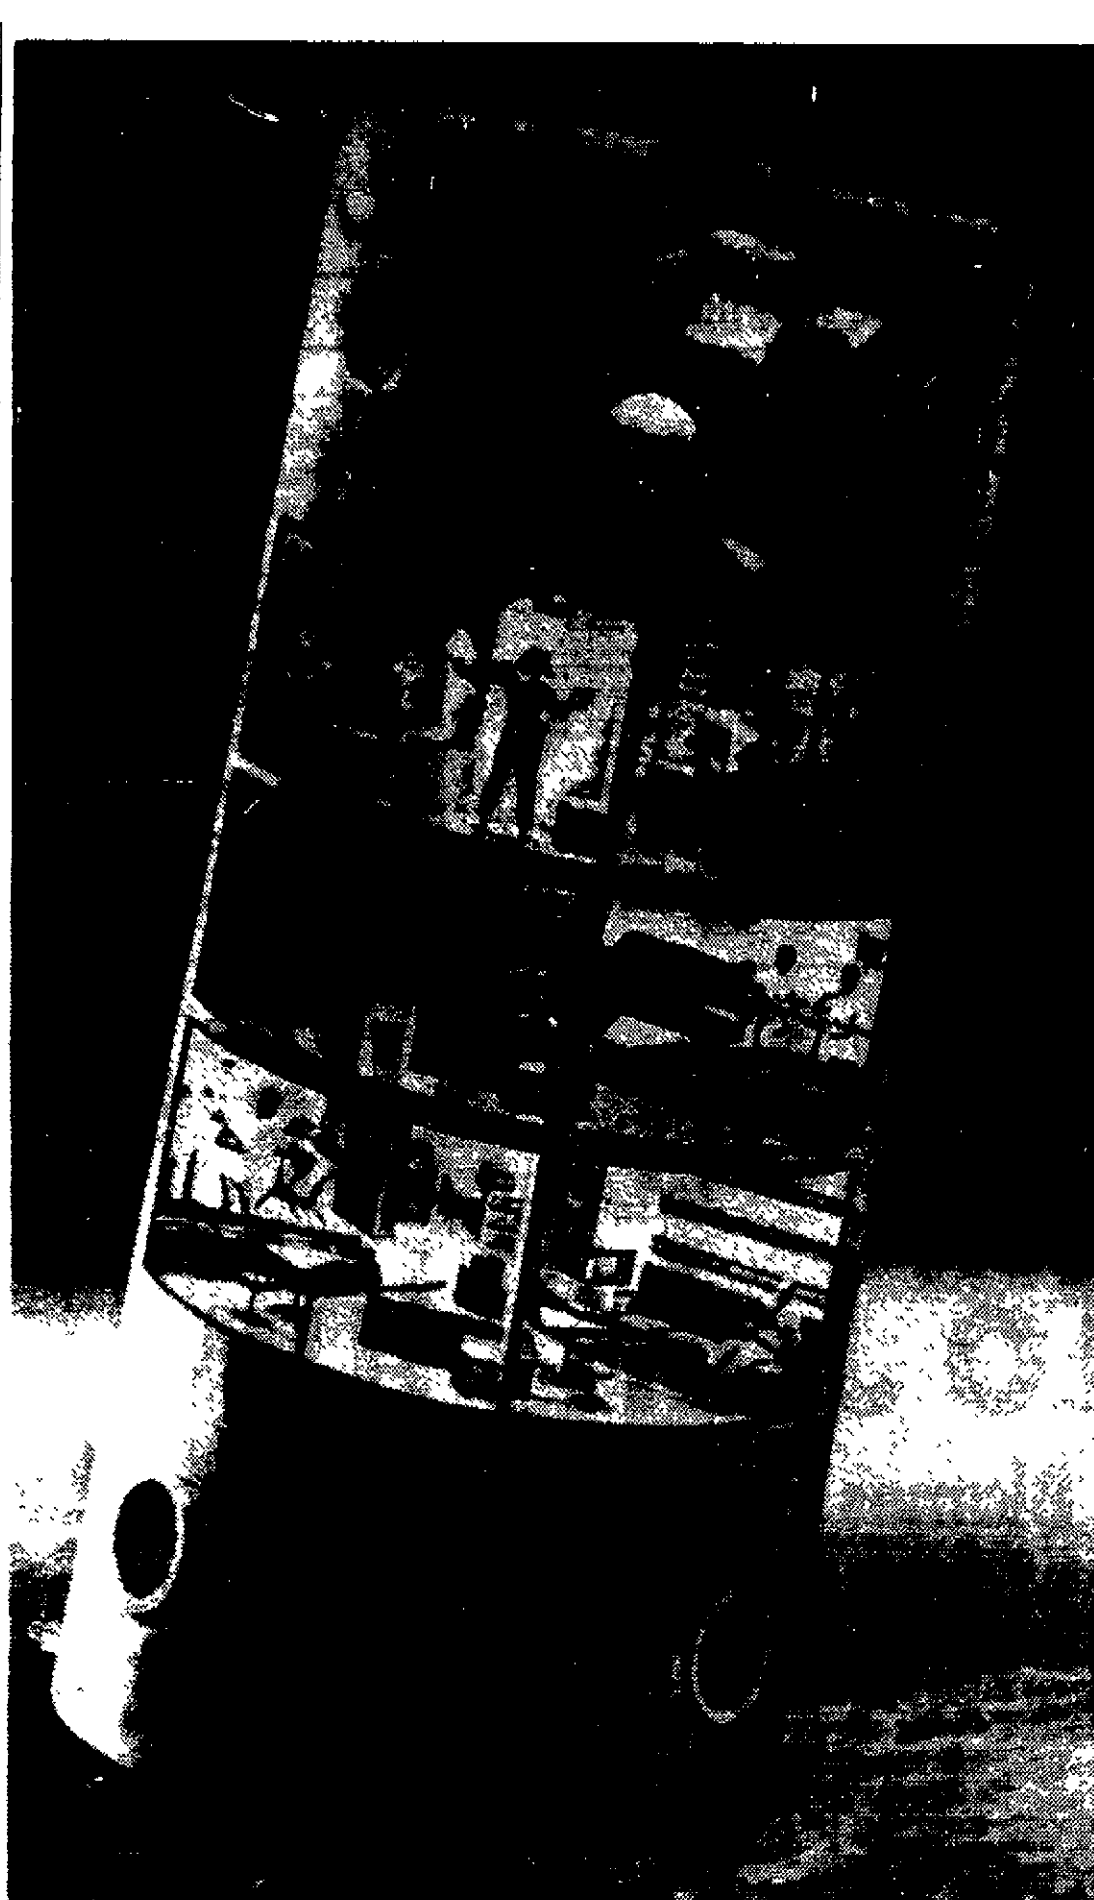

Yolles was commended for his testimony by Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, chairman of a Judiciary subcommittee now considering legislation to restructure existing U.S. narcotics laws.

In late 1967, Dr. James L. Goddard, then head of the Food and Drug Administration, caused a congressional furor when he was quoted as saying he believed marijuana was less dangerous than alcohol, which he said caused 11,000 deaths a year. He later said marijuana was also dangerous and he was not advocating legalizing it.

"What must be emphasized," Dr. Cohen said Wednesday, "is that Dr. Yolles and I are not 'soft' on drugs."

"It is evident that strict controls over the illicit manufacture, transportation, smuggling and dealing in large amounts of abusable substances are necessary and desirable," he said.

"It is also evident that more stringent laws . . . for simple possession and use of these same substances have not been effective. Their abuse is a problem of prevention, education and treatment."

Addresses U.N. Assembly Nixon Makes Plea for Peace

the buildup of strategic arms, but to reverse it."

As for the strife-ridden Middle East, on which the United States and Russia today renew already extensive consultations, Nixon said recent violence there "points up anew the urgency of a stable peace."

As a minimum condition for a settlement, Nixon cited observance of U.N. cease-fire resolutions. Summing up the official U.S. view, he said:

"We seek a settlement based on respect for the sovereign right of each nation to exist within secure and recognized boundaries. We are convinced that peace cannot be achieved on the basis of anything less than a binding, irrevocable commitment by the parties to live together in peace."

Swipe at Soviets
Taking still another swipe at the Soviets, Nixon said: "Failing a settlement, an agreement on the limitation of the shipment of arms to the Middle East might help to stabilize the situation. We have indicated to the Soviet Union, without result, our willingness to enter such discussions."

In a general statement of his approach to talks with the Soviets, he said:

"We intend to conduct our negotiations . . . soberly and seriously, neither encumbered by prejudice nor blinded by sentimentality, seeking to reach agreements rather than to make propaganda."

Nixon cited five areas of concern on which he said all nations ought to be able to agree: "Securing the safety of international air travel, encouraging of voluntary service, fostering economic development and population control, protecting our threatened environment, exploring the frontiers of space."

Punish Hijackers
The President urged the United Nations to give high priority to a new international treaty for the punishment of airplane hijackers.

"Sky piracy cannot be ended as long as the pirates receive asylum," he observed.

Nixon endorsed the idea of a U.N.-sponsored International Volunteer Corps, akin to the U.S. Peace Corps, and promised commitments on a sustainable, long-term basis, to encourage local and regional initiatives, to foster national independence and self-sufficiency, and by so doing to strengthen the total fabric of peace."

After courtesy calls on U.N. Secretary-General U Thant and General Assembly President Angie Brooks of Liberia following his speech, Nixon scheduled separate private talks with the foreign ministers of France, Tunisia, Britain, South Vietnam, Thailand, Jordan and Romania and with the prime minister of Mauritania.

Reception in Evening
In the early evening the President will be host at a reception for chiefs of all the 125 other delegations at the assembly, except those from Cuba, Albania and Mongolia, U.S. officials said. The United States has no diplomatic relations with these countries.

Nixon planned to return to Washington after the reception.

Profits Replace Social Gain As Goal in Slum Projects

By ROBERT A. DOBKIN Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration is using a business profit and loss statement—rather than social gains—to measure progress by some experimental community action firms.

Spokesmen for the federal antipoverty program acknowledge paying dozens of hard-core poor from the payroll in at least two projects—one in a big city ghetto, the other in a rural southern town—that verged on bankruptcy.

But they argue their aim is to put the firms on their feet so that ultimately they can employ the jobless rather than letting the firms become another form of welfare agency.

Business Success
"The criteria for success in this field is the creation of a viable business enterprise . . . there's not going to be a never-ending transfusion of dough," says Geoffrey Faux, chief of the Office of Economic Opportunity's Economic Development Branch.

"We know they're not going to be as efficient as General Motors, but the question is can they at least support themselves and maybe make a profit," said another official of OEO, the federal government's antipoverty agency.

The official, who asked not to be identified, said the Nixon administration is more interested in the ability of these projects to support themselves and less interested in getting the hard-core poor on some sort of payroll.

"There will be screams and howls of protest from all over," he said. "Albina is just the first."

Portland Firm
Albina is the Albina Corp. of Portland, Ore., founded, operated and manned almost entirely by blacks in the city's ghetto. Located in a former bowling alley, the metal, plastics and fiberglass manufacturing firm has processed a number of government and private contracts since its founding a year ago.

But its president, Mayfield Webb, says pressure from Washington has forced it to drop some social goals and aim for a quick profit.

"We have felt the effect of the new administration in Washington," says Webb, a lawyer and NAACP official. "The program people are not being listened to. It's the financial people now," he says of what he calls new orders from OEO.

Additional Funds
OEO is considering Albina's application for a new $490,000 grant. It already has made grants totaling $588,545. Webb says "everything will go down the drain" without the additional funds.

When the corporation ran into a delay in tooling up for a $1.2 million Department of Defense contract for steel ammunition boxes, OEO took a close look at the corporation and suggested several changes in management methods.

Webb says the basic difference is that OEO wants Albina to start showing a profit quickly. He says the original idea was to think about cash profits in two or three years while concentrating now on widespread employment of the hardcore jobless; of helping to start other black businesses; of generally benefitting the Albina district where most of Portland's 18,000 blacks live.

Whites Brought In
Webb says the project will get back to those goals once it starts making money. In the meantime, several of the hard-core poor have been dropped from the payroll and some experienced whites have been brought in at wages higher than those paid to the blacks. The whites, however, don't participate in Albina's profit-sharing plan.

"It's not a question of being nice to the hard-core poor, but of finding ways they can be of help to themselves," says the OEO official in Washington. "If it means letting some people go to cut down on overhead, that's what they're going to have to do."

"The Republicans want to see definite results and less of 'Oh gee, these guys are really poor and we've got to do something.' They want to see these projects eventually pay for themselves."

Management Teams
To do this, OEO is sending in professional management consulting teams to work with community development corporations, and train the ghetto executives about cost accounting and writing financial statements.

"OEO is now asking how much money you made and lost and why. It's looking closer at their budgets and asking them to quantify what they're doing and pay attention to cost-benefit ratios," the official says.

Crawfordville Enterprises in Crawfordville, Ga., (population 3,500) found this out last spring when, after running into one financial crisis after another, it looked to OEO for refueling.

OEO agreed, but only after the community development corporation agreed to retain a professional management consulting firm acceptable to OEO.

Produce for Paycheck
"People that didn't produce were let go," said the OEO official. "This gave incentive to others that to get paid they had to produce."

Now, OEO says Crawfordville Enterprises is beginning to make progress in dealing with its fundamental problem of creating job opportunities to reduce migration from the town. It already is the largest employer in the county. Numbered among its projects are a textile manufacturing business, a small credit union and an agricultural cooperative.

OEO's emphasis on keeping a closer watch on where its money goes appears to bear the stamp of its new director, Donald Rumsfeld. Shortly after his appointment to the agency by President Nixon in April, Rumsfeld said in an interview:

"OEO will develop approaches and ideas that can be tested and made workable . . . and if they cannot work, they will be stopped."

Democrats Eye Post Of Dirksen Successor

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican Ralph T. Smith is just settling into his new Senate seat—but he's already a leading Democratic target for the 1970 campaign.

Smith, whose appointment to succeed Illinois' late Sen. Everett M. Dirksen takes effect to-Adlai E. Stevenson III, Illinois state treasurer and son of the two-time seeker of the presidency, is considered likely to try for Smith's position, with Lt. Gov. Paul Simon another Democratic possibility.

Other Republican senators on Inouye's target list: Charles E. Goodell of New York, Theodore Stevens of Alaska, Winston L. Prouty of Vermont, and the Delaware seat of retiring John J. Williams.

General Picture
"While the odds against us look pretty bleak, I won't say the picture is completely black," Inouye said of the general 1970 picture.

Breaking with tradition, he said, the campaign committee will help incumbent Democratic challenge them in party primaries, as well as later Republican challengers.

"The time for helping is now," Inouye said, even though the committee risks intervention in Democratic Senate primaries.

"If incumbents are defeated in the primaries," said Inouye, "we will immediately shift our gears and do our best to help the primary winner."

Brothers Convicted of Ramon Navarro Death

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Two brothers, each blaming the other for killing Ramon Navarro, one of the great lovers of the early screen, were convicted Wednesday of first-degree murder.

One faces the death penalty, the other life imprisonment.

The state contended during a month-long trial that Paul Ferguson, 23, and his brother, Thomas, 18, both of Chicago, bludgeoned the 69-year-old actor in his Hollywood Hills home last Oct. 30, seeking $5,000 they thought was hidden in the house.

The men tortured Navarro when they found he had no money and struck him with a cane the actor once used in a movie, prosecutors said.

The younger brother faces a life sentence because he was only 17 at the time of the crime. The same Superior Court jury will begin new deliberations Tuesday to see if Paul Ferguson should be sentenced to the gas chamber.

Paul testified he was drunk when Navarro was killed and said his brother was guilty. He cursed Thomas during the trial when Thomas testified the bloody Navarro's last words were "Hail Mary, full of Grace."

Winnebago Value Near $70 Million

OSHKOSH — The full-value $97.8 for every $1,000 in taxes equalization of the county's 21 municipalities for 1969 is $97. This compares to $96.9 per $1,000 an increase of nearly $1 million over the previous year.

In 1968, the value of all property was set at $90,563,790, making the actual increase for this year $69,586,310.

The county board Wednesday, in approving the report of Glenn Niere, assessment supervisor, Wisconsin Department of Revenue, Fond du Lac office, learned that the county's increase in the real estate valuation is lower than the 1-county average comprising Niere's district.

Real Estate

The real estate valuation of the county, although increasing $58 million to $851,816,100, or a 7.5 per cent boost, compared to the 1-county average increase of 8.98 per cent. New construction in the county totaled $31 million this year. Inflation accounted for the remaining $27 million increase, the assessment supervisor noted.

The full-market valuation figures will be used to set each municipality's share of the county tax for the upcoming year.

Town of Menasha

The Town of Menasha's value on real estate and personal property for 1969 is $95,309,200, an increase of $7,623,510 over 1968.

The town realized a real estate increase of $5,232,000, or from $77,96,000 to $83,196,000.

In comparison, the City of Menasha full value for 1969 is $13,778,000, or an increase of $3,915,280. New construction in the town, totaling in excess of $3 million, accounted for its hike and in nearly doubling the city's increase in a one-year period.

NM Workers Earn State's Top Pay

NEENAH-MENASHA — The average weekly pay for the Twin City industrial worker has increased nearly $14 over the past year, according to a report from the Wisconsin Department of Industry, Labor and Human Relations.

The average factory worker in the Neenah-Menasha area during August of this year earned $155.62 for a 44-hour week, compared to $142.24 for a 44.5 hour week a year ago.

Twin City workers regained their spot as the best paid industrial workers in the state on a weekly wage basis.

Janesville workers, who have fought a see-saw battle with the Twin Cities for the No. 1 position, dropped to the third spot as the summer laid-off started prior to the production for the 1971 model automobiles.

Racine with an industrial base of Johnson's Wax and the J. I. Case Co., moved into the second spot this month with an average weekly earnings of $153.27 for a 42.3 hour week. The average hourly rate is $3.63.

2-Cent Raise

A month ago the average local worker earned $152.70 for a 43.5 hour work week. His hourly pay increased by 2 cents from July to August.

Hourly pay rates for the Twin City worker is $3.53 for an increase of 33 cents from a year ago.

Although the local workers have larger paychecks than anyone else in the state, they work more hours than anyone else, too. The Janesville force works an average of 40.4 hours a week.

There are a total of about 13,200 persons employed by industries in the Twin Cities. This is 100 less than a month ago but 200 above July of 1968.

The Neenah-Menasha area employs nearly 5,000 more than does Appleton, and 4,000 more than Oshkosh.

The hourly rates paid in Appleton during August was about $3.20 resulting in an average of $135 for a 42.3 hour week, and $2.89 in Oshkosh, giving the workers there about $115.84 for a 40-hour week.

Fox Valley's Future Traffic Valve

NEENAH-MENASHA — Projecting a population growth to 237,000, and at the very least, half that number in motor vehicle registrations in 13 northern Winnebago County communities by 1985, the Fox Valley Council of Governments (COG) says a bridge across the Little Lake will be essential to alleviate serious traffic congestion in the Fox Cities area.

While the Fox Cities area has increased in population and extended its economic influence, it has also overburdened its road system and existing bridges.

Jerry Starling, COG transportation planner, projected the growth in population for the Cities of Appleton, Neenah and Menasha, Kaukauna, Kimberly, Little Chute, Combined Locks, Village of Sherwood, and Towns of Menasha, Neenah, Harrison and Buchanan.

These 13 communities presently have a combined population of 15,000 (1968 census). The population in 1985 will be 237,000 and by the year 2000, it will be 353,000, Starling's computations shows.

There are presently 6,761 vehicles registered in the 13 communities. However, that's 10,000 more than in 1965 when there were 5,367 registered.

Assuming the same trend will follow (10,000 vehicle increase every three years) by 1985 there will be over 115,000 vehicles registered in the 13 communities, or more startling, one car for every two persons.

Traffic Counts

Starling said a traffic count has been completed this past week on Neenah's two bridges.

The average 2-hour weekly count on the Commercial Street Bridge tallied 20,263 vehicles, while a similar survey showed 1,63 on the Oak Street Bridge. The COG maintains the Little Lake Bridge would reduce traffic on the Commercial Street Bridge by 22 per cent.

More up-to-date traffic counts also are available on three other bridges in the area. The Memorial Drive Bridge in Appleton averages 23,255 vehicles daily. With construction of the Little Lake Bridge, a 1 per cent traffic reduction would be inevitable.

31,233 Vehicles

The Racine and Tayco Street Bridges in the City of Menasha total 31,233 vehicles daily. The proposed bridge would alleviate the congestion by 22 per cent, the transportation planner said.

Not only is the Little Lake bridge necessary in order for segments of the Tri-County Expressway to function but the bridge also will contribute to the western economic development of the Fox Cities area.

The bridge and the expressway will eliminate the traffic congestion and greatly enhance the Neenah and Menasha downtown area. It also will boost the industrial and residential areas as was the case when the beltline was constructed at Madison and U.S. 1 was completed in Green Bay.

Calumet County

The bridge also will result in more direct access to Calumet County and likewise provide free flow of traffic west to this area. The heavier flow of traffic into the Fox Cities area will be even more apparent when the expressway interconnects with the proposed interstate system.

Industrial and residential growth west of U.S. 1 is apparent today and will continue to grow greatly during the ensuing years.

An Appleton firm is contemplating a huge industrial development west of the superhighway in the Town of Greenville.

Research Center

The new Kimberly-Clark Research Center is proposed west of the Little Lake and the new district vocational school (VTE-12) is being built west at U.S. 10 and 1.

Starling said there are roughly 2,500 employees at K-C's Lakeview plant on the west side of the lake and a good percentage of those employees reside on the east side of Butte des Morts.

Supervisors Look for Say in Metro Districts

OSHKOSH — On the urging of Supv. Roland Kampe, Town of Menasha, the county board Wednesday voted to appeal to the state legislature to draft a bill giving counties authority to establish metropolitan sewage districts.

Supv. Herman Brandt, Towns of Omro and Utica, a proponent of the metro system, said, "The biggest problem in the county today is the serious sewage disposal system. We must take action to alleviate this problem."

The feasibility of establishing a metro system in the Oshkosh area will be studied by the coordinating committee.

The Town of Omro is in the process of establishing a sewage district, and after two petitions for the plan, a hearing is set Oct. 4 at the town hall, Brandt explained.

Brandt's urging for the metro system came on the heels of a report by a planner with the Northeastern Wisconsin Regional Planning Commission. The planner submitted a report recommending the county establish several water and sewer districts.

COG Planner Will Go to IBM School

Thomas Ellwood, director of law enforcement planning for the Fox Valley Council of Governments (COG), has been selected by IBM Corp. to attend its executive school in San Jose, Calif., Oct. 20-24.

The school presents a course on comprehensive review of data processing in law enforcement, including the installation and applications of equipment. Financed by IBM, the course is designed for top-level administrators world-wide.

Ellwood is working on a central data processing center for the Fox Valley area, which is getting underway with a pilot project at Menasha.

One Jailed, One Fined For Public Intoxication

One of two men appearing in Outagamie County Court Branch 2 on public intoxication charges was sentenced to 20 days in jail because of his long prior record of similar offenses.

He was Emil E. Oshefsky, 60, Pulaski, who was arrested by Appleton police about 7:35 p.m. Tuesday at Appleton Street and College Avenue. Oshefsky, who pleaded guilty, has appeared in court here on drunkenness charges numerous times in the past.

William J. Igowski, 64, Milwaukee, was fined $50 and costs or 12 days in jail after he pleaded guilty to an intoxication charge brought by Appleton police who arrested him about 1:20 a.m. Wednesday at College Avenue and Locust Street.

firm anyway agreed with Buckley that the personnel losses were regrettable, but they warned that the 1970 street improvement program depends on inspecting sewers this fall to learn whether excavations are needed to make repairs.

American Pipe should be hired this fall and if a change were to be made it should wait until next year, they argued.

Ald. William Errington (15th) said he had spoken with American Pipe representatives who were in the council chamber and they assured him the firm would be available this fall if the council approved the hiring. He said the city lacks a guarantee that another firm could be found to do the job this fall, but he continued, "We have a guarantee that American Pipe can."

The Buckley forces disagreed. Finance Director David Champion, called upon by the mayor, reported having telephoned an officer of a Cleveland, Ohio, sewer inspection firm. While there was uncertainty whether that company could do the job this fall, Champion said his Cleveland source referred him to two other firms which the source "felt would come in here immediately."

Buckley also reported that Public Works Director Robert G. Miller, who is attending an out-of-state conference of public works officials, also is investigating alternate firms. Ald. Walter Kalata (2nd) added he plans to visit another city which owns and operates its own sewer televising equipment, and he promised a report.

"So this was not a negative veto. We did take positive steps to find an alternate firm," Buckley argued.

Voting with the mayor and against overriding his veto were Aids. John Ayers (12th), Norman Beyer (20th), Kalata, Orval Polzin (3rd), Robert Roemer (8th), John Steidl (18th), and Al Stogebauer (4th). All except Ayers and Roemer had voted with the mayor at the previous council session.

Ald. Richard Schouten (19th), who had voted against hiring the firm prior to the mayor's veto, said he would vote to override the veto this time on the basis of investigating he had done concerning American Pipe's reputation. "But, I want this veto to serve as fair warning" against further attempts to hire away city personnel, he said.

In other business, the council: Approved a board of public works recommendation to purchase 79 acres of land adjoining the former county airport site which now serves as city industrial park. Appleton Industrial Development Corp. now holds a land contract to buy the land from Hietpas Dairy interests, and the city would assume the cost of $237,960 plus payments made to date by the industrial development corporation. The purchase was referred to the plans commission and finance committee.

—Agreed to sell 2.18 acres of land in the southwest industrial park to Carpet Contractors & Supply Co., Inc., for $9,889.

—Authorized Personnel Director Jerome Rusch to look for a part-time labor negotiator to represent the city in bargaining with city employees until a replacement for Rusch can be found and broken in.

Pennsylvania Firm Buys Badger Products, Neenah

NEENAH — Badger Products Co. Inc., 435 Monroe St., has been acquired by Alco Standard Corp., Valley Forge, Pa., for Alco common stock, it was announced today.

Badger, a privately-owned distributor of industrial and packaging materials, will become part of Alco's distribution group of companies.

The announcement of the acquisition by the diversified corporation serving the chemical, electrical, metallurgical, leisure-time and distribution fields was made by Tinkham Veale II, Alco chairman, and N. E. Burstein, president of Badger.

Burstein said that all Badger operations will remain under the present management at their present location.

Alco also announced today that its directors had approved the previously announced purchase of LaSalle Messenger Paper Co., Broadview, Ill., a closely-owned firm which also will become a part of Alco's distributor group. The firm, also being purchased for Alco com-

Buckley Hasn't Got the Job, But He Gets the Business

Mayor George Buckley's announcement of interest in the Outagamie County corporation counsel position may or may not get him the job, but at Wednesday night's council meeting he got the business more than once.

Debating the mayor's veto of hiring a sewer inspection firm because the city lost three public works employees to the company, Ald. Orville Strutz (17th) sided with the former city employees.

The council, said Strutz, "should penalize no one who tries to get ahead or better himself." He added to Buckley, "I see by the paper tonight, Your Honor, that you might try to better yourself."

Amid chuckles from Buckley's council opponents, Ald. Glenn Thompson (13th) added that if Buckley takes the job, "We'll still do business with Outagamie County."

Buckley took the needling silently, though at the opening of the meeting he commented on a sign someone had placed on his desk, complimenting the anonymous person's sense of humor.

The sign read, "We're going out of business."

Parks Budget Of $41,571 Set for County

Expenditures Are Down by $3,400 From This Year

An Outagamie County parks and recreation budget of $41,571 has been recommended by the parks committee for 1970.

The budget, which is some $3,400 less than the current budget, will go to the finance committee the first week in October. No provision has been made, however, for salary increases for park employees. All salary changes are handled by the personnel committee.

Plamann Park will again absorb the bulk of parks expenditures, $38,121, or 967 less than budgeted for 1969.

Major capital outlay items in the Plamann budget include $3,500 for a second diving platform in the swimming lake, $2,200 for enclosing the lake shelter house and $1,500 for road improvement in the park.

Combined budget for the access sites is $3,450 with $2,300 of that planned for the Barker site at Shiocton.

could house the city hall and police station, meeting future as well as present needs. In addition, development of the downtown area would benefit if the city could make the present city hall and police station available to private development.

At the same time, the county's needs for new jail facilities would be met more cheaply if the county were to build them as part of a complete new courthouse complex, Ayers continued. And at the same time, preventing further enlargement of the courthouse complex would safeguard the city's long-range plan for that area of the city, he said.

Youth From Neenah Admits Unruliness

Peter Schilling, 18, 318 Linwood Lane, Neenah, was fined $50 and costs or 12 days in jail Wednesday after he pleaded guilty, in Outagamie County Court Branch 2, to a disorderly conduct charge brought by Appleton police.

Schilling was arrested in the 200 block of W. College Avenue Wednesday after getting into a fight with and striking a girl. Police said he later became abusive and used profanity.

Kaukauna Man Wins Release From Army

judge's order came after the American Civil Liberties Union in Newark, N.J., brought suit against the Appleton draft board for him.

Plans To Teach

Grissman, who graduated from the University of Wisconsin last June, was planning to teach urban education at Trenton, N.J. He and his wife, who now teaches in the Appleton school system, lived in Madison the past year while he completed his final year of studies.

The 1964 Kaukauna High School graduate lost his student deferment last November when the local board refused to renew the deferment because he was carrying only 12 credit hours of classes, according to his wife, Mary Jane. She said he also was working.

Grissman's appeal went to the Wisconsin draft board in February and he was notified in June that it was unanimously rejected, the unanimous decision prohibiting him the right to appeal to the national board.

Letter Delayed

He then took a position at Trenton but was drafted before a letter from the school system seeking a deferment for him was received by the local draft board, his wife said. The letter took 10 days to arrive, she noted.

Although now allowed to comment on his specific case, a spokesman for the Outagamie County draft board said "not too many" deferments have been given for conscientious objectors. However, he assured all those requesting such a deferment, as well as anyone seeking one, was given full consideration and all rights under the law.

"The (local) board must determine the sincerity of the registrant's beliefs, he said, noting that it looks for something in his background, as formalized religious training, which might have instilled his beliefs.

The board does not accept sociological, philosophical or political beliefs as a satisfactory reason for granting such a deferment, he said.

Kiwanian to Serve in International Post

Hilmar Solberg, past president of the Appleton Kiwanis Club, has been selected as one of the leaders to conduct the Kiwanis International Council, Oct. 1 to 4 in Chicago.

The indoctrinational meeting will involve the 30 newly-appointed kiwanis district governors and secretaries. Solberg is a past Wisconsin district governor of Kiwanis.

Headset Stolen

Appleton police were told Wednesday that a stereo headset, valued at $59.95, was stolen from a display shelf at Consumer Electronics Supply Co., 518 N. Appleton St.

Air Wisconsin Adds Marion, Ind. To Route System

Air Wisconsin will expand its route system to Marion, Ind., on Oct. 1, according to airline officials. Service will be provided between Marion, Chicago and Detroit on the Kokomo route.

Marion is about 50 miles northeast of Kokomo.

During the month of August, Air Wisconsin carried 8,979 passengers, compared to 8,734 for the same month a year ago, a 57 per cent increase.

Air freight climbed from 53,519 pounds last August to 86,371 pounds, a 61 per cent increase.

Auto Seat Burns

A cigarette was listed as the possible cause of a fire that damaged the rear seat of a car driven by Mrs. Martin Jansen, 415 E. South River St., about 6 a.m. today. The 1960 car was in the 1500 block of W. Washington Street.

'Get Cal Spice'

Sheriff Lashes Board Supervisor

Outagamie County Sheriff Calvin Spice unleashed a barrage of personnel criticism Wednesday against a county board supervisor who Spice feels "has one aim — to get Cal Spice."

The sheriff's angry outburst came at the county board's courts, justice and enforcement committee meeting, and was directed at Supv. John Schreiter, Appleton, committee vice chairman.

Charging Schreiter was trying to build up county board opposition to Spice, who recently requested more personnel, the sheriff said: "I don't like you and I don't respect you in the least for what you've done."

He accused Schreiter of telling supervisors "behind my back" that Spice and Alvin Woehler, county executive secretary, cannot get along.

"I haven't had a good argument with him for a long time," Spice added.

Schreiter refused to defend himself but admitted that he had made comments about the Spice-Woehler relationship. He said that he understood "it's not the best."

Other committee members also declined to enter the argument but commended Spice for his working with the committee. They also told him they felt he was doing an excellent job as sheriff.

"My aim is to get the best law enforcement for the county," Spice said.

Spice has requested in his 1970 budget that funds be made available to hire three more investigators.

He criticized Schreiter for not coming to him and Woehler to find out if there were bad feelings.

"You're on my back continuously, John Schreiter," he said.

He said Schreiter was trying to "get the supervisors mad at me so they'll defeat my request for a 1970 budget."

Spice said that he felt he and the committee had come to an understanding and were working smoothly. However, when he was told by a supervisor that Schreiter was making comments, "this shook me up."

He said he would like to forget past problems he had with the committee and that he ran "as a Democrat," and concentrate on operating an efficient sheriff's office. If this is impeded, he warned, "the people of the county are going to be the losers."

After the tirade, Spice said that he felt better with it off his chest, and he and the committee continued deliberations on the proposed budget.

In order that construction of the plant expansion may proceed on schedule, crews will be working to connect new 54" piping to the present water treatment plant facilities during this period. These connections will require that the water treatment plant operate at half-capacity until the work is completed.

The general conserving of water in all ways possible is very necessary to assure that the City water supply is maintained at a level adequate for proper fire protection. We need the support of not only industry but also the private citizen.

Report Denied of Onassis Ailment

ATHENS (AP)—A rumor that Greek shipping magnate Aristotle Onassis is seriously ill on Scorpis, his private island, was denied today by the chairman of his Olympic Airways.

"Mr. Onassis is in the best of health and he is with his wife Jacqueline and her children on Scorpis," said Ioannis Georgakis in a statement published in Athens newspapers.

Georgakis said rumors that Onassis had suffered a heart attack were "unfounded." The rumors sprang up after Onassis did not appear at his Athens office for three days.

Music Contests Set at Clintonville

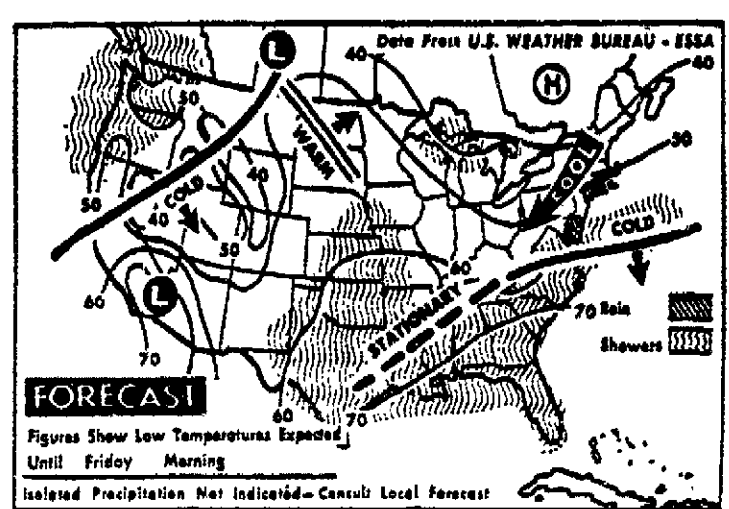

CLINTONVILLE — Solo and ensemble music contests were scheduled here during Monday's meeting of the Mid-Eastern Music Conference.

Music educators attended from here, Shawano, Kimberly and New London.

The solo contest will be conducted here March 14 and the concert event will be April 11.

The concert events will be climaxed with a parade of all participating junior and senior high school bands.

Richard Gaarder, Association executive secretary, Madison, outlined some of the changes in fees and rules. Because of increasing costs, fees for the contests will go up slightly this year. He also noted that sight reading for Class A choral groups will be changed, using the method used in Minnesota. The state music contest will be April 25.

Showers Are Expected in much of the Southeast and Midwest tonight and in parts of the Northwest. Cooler temperatures are predicted in the Northeast and Southwest. (AP Wirephoto Map)

Bridge Bonding Bill Gets Committee Support, No Action Program Stalled Again After Pros, Cons Voiced at Hearing

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — Despite cries of opponents for a "pay-as-you-go" plan, the state's proposed $35 million bridge bonding program had strong support Wednesday before the legislative committee which stalled its progress for two weeks.

Backers of the bridge bonding plan, which calls for the direct sale of state bonds to finance construction of 24 "top priority" bridges throughout the state — including structures in Brown, Outagamie, and Winnebago counties — were out in force for the hearing held by the Joint Committee on Finance.

But the legislative foes of the plan contested what they called the "blank check" aspects of the bonding proposal. Led by Assemblyman Russell Olson, R-Basset, and Lewis Mitness, D-Janesville, lawmakers objected to the lack of specific direction on the bill spelling out the means by which the bonds will be paid off.

No Action
The committee, which had tabled the bill by an 8-6 vote previously, took no action on the bonding measure because three members of the 14-man unit were absent.

Senate co-chairman Walter Hollander, R-Rosendale, said the bill may be acted upon by the committee on Sept. 25.

Action by the committee could come in the form of a recommendation for passage, a recommendation for killing the bill or no recommendation at all. Several finance members who oppose the bill have predicted that even an unfavorable recommendation will be meaningless when the full legislature considers the measure.

Foes of the measure objected to a provision in the bill that bonds be paid off with highway funds. They said the requirement is not specific enough.

Highway Funds
Highway Commission chairman William Redmond told the committee that he expects the bonds can be retired with federal Interstate Highway trust fund money that will become available for general highway use in 1974.

The switch to general federal highway aid formulas will double the amount of federal money Wisconsin has available for construction, he said.

Olson objected that there is no guarantee, "only a hope," that the funds will become available. Congress is looking toward building more interstate highways, he said.

Assemblyman Ronald Parys.

Hilbert Sergeant's Service Saturday At Stockbridge

STOCKBRIDGE — Funeral services for Staff Sgt. Bernard A. Propson, 20, route 1, Hilbert, who was killed Vietnam Sept. 5, will be at 10:30 a.m. Saturday at St. Mary Catholic Church here.

The Rev. William Willinger, pastor, will officiate at the full military rites. Burial will be in the parish cemetery.

The body will be escorted from California by a cousin, Pvt. Jerome Propson, who is stationed at Fort Sam Houston, Texas.

Propson graduated from Stockbridge High School in 1967, entered the service Feb. 18, 1968, and was sent to Vietnam in February of this year.

Surviving are his widow, a son, his parents, five brothers and one sister.

Power Interconnection to Extend Over Rail Property

KAUKAUNA — The common council Tuesday night authorized Mayor Gilbert Anderson and the Electric and Water Utility to enter into agreement with the Chicago and North Western Railway for extension of power lines over railway property in Combined Locks.

The resolution was needed to permit completion of the interconnection system with the Menasha Electric Utility. Work on the connecting line is being handled by Hi-Line Construction Co., Green Bay, and it is expected that line erection should be completed about the end of October.

The transmission line between the two cities follows the railroad right-of-way from Menasha to Outagamie County Trunk N. From there it proceeds north to the first road north of U.S. 10 and then swings east for one mile and north on a private right-of-way to a special structure station crossing over present transmission lines.

The lines will go north to

D-Milwaukee, objected that no city bridges were included in the priority listing for Milwaukee. Two structures in Milwaukee County in the west are "sops" for Southeastern Wisconsin, he said.

Milwaukee votes can be obtained with Milwaukee bridges, he suggested.

More Protests
Echoing his protests that the southeastern part of the state had been ignored were Sen. James Swan, R-Elkhorn, and Mitness. Mitness also contended that less state money would be needed to pay for the projects if they were directly financed rather than tied to bond interest charges.

But neither Olson nor Mitness were willing when asked to offer tax plans to put the measure on "pay-as-you-go" basis.

Assemblyman Willis Hutnik, R-Ladysmith, head of the Assembly Highway Committee, said that the priority listing had been compiled by state highway officials on the basis of need.

GOP Women to Attend Parley In Washington

CHILTON — Mrs. Mark Everix of Chilton, president of the Wisconsin Federation of Republican Women, will lead a group of 60 delegates and alternates from the state at the 15th biennial convention of the national federation in Washington, D. C., on Sept. 26-28.

Other Fox Valley women planning to attend the sessions include Mrs. Edward Koerschner of Appleton and Mrs. J. N. Barnett Jr. of Oshkosh, delegates; Mrs. C. C. Schroeder, Appleton, and Mrs. Lee Sonnenberg, Oshkosh, alternates; Mrs. Byron Ising, and Mrs. Robert Murray, both of Oshkosh, delegates at large; and Mrs. Charles Nolan of Oshkosh, alternate at large.

The American Dream is the theme of this year's convention, which will feature an open house at the White House, an awards luncheon naming the Republican Woman of the Year, and a formal banquet. New national officers also will be elected during the meeting.

This year's Wisconsin Woman of the Year is Mrs. Ising, state national committeewoman.

Pre-School Story Hour Registration Slated in Kaukauna

KAUKAUNA — Registrations for the annual pre-school story hour for Kaukauna children who will enter kindergarten in the fall of 1970, will be taken from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. and from 2 to 5 p.m. Sept. 25 and 26.

Parents interested in enrolling their four-year-old children must register in person in the children's department of Kaukauna Public Library. No registrations will be accepted by telephone.

The story hour is on Thursday afternoon, Oct. 2 through April, 1970. Mrs. Myron Black, children's librarian, is in charge, assisted by Mrs. Rinert Wenzel.

OU Defense Improved

Sooners' Game Plan 'Simple and Flexible,' Give Ball to Owens

NORMAN, Okla. (AP)—Coach Chuck Fairbanks says his Oklahoma football team will have a "simple and flexible" game plan for Saturday's season opener with Wisconsin at Madison.

Unless Fairbanks has some surprises up his sleeve, "simple and flexible" probably can be translated to read like this: Steve Owens will carry the ball until Wisconsin proves it can consistently stop him.

Owens, the 6-foot-2, 213-pound Heisman Trophy candidate, averaged more than 35 carries a game from his tailback spot last year while gaining more than 1,500 yards and scoring 21 touchdowns.

Sharing the spotlight with Owens will be sophomore quarterback Jack Mildren, a blue-chipper from Abilene, Tex., who sewed up the No. 1 signal-calling berth two weeks ago.

Other Sooners to watch on offense are 6-foot-4, 230-pound tight end Steve Zabel and 6-foot-3, 230-pound center Ken Mendenhall.

Pair Ailing

The defensive platoon has the Oklahoma coaching staff a little worried. Linebacker Steve Castee and tackle John Watson suffered severely sprained ankles last week, and their playing status Wednesday was in doubt.

Overall, however, the Sooner defense figures to be better than last year, when Zabel had to switch to defensive end after the team got off to a 2-3 start.

OU went on to finish 7-3, sharing the Big Eight title with Kansas, before dropping a 28-27 decision to Southern Methodist in the Bluebonnet Bowl.

Fairbanks, whose two-year record at Oklahoma shows 17 victories, five defeats, two conference titles and two bowl appearances, says he expects Wisconsin to be "improved tremendously" over last season's winless squad.

UW Much Better

"Wisconsin's personnel is much better," Fairbanks said, "especially at important positions on offense. We felt they were extremely capable defensively last year and expect them to have another fine defensive team."

Of his own team, Fairbanks admits, "We're better overall than we've been the past two years."

"I'm concerned as to whether our first units on offense and deense will be able to perform as well as the first units performed the past few seasons."

Looking ahead to Saturday's game, Fairbanks concluded: "It's an opening game and we have a minimum amount of advance knowledge about their team. Our ability to adjust to unusual situations will have a strong bearing on the outcome."

Aaron's 42nd Homer Gives Braves Win in 12th, 6 to 5

By MIKE BRYSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

Los Angeles finally came up a winner in that National League West craze—first-place roulette—but Hank Aaron's slug fouled up the whole thing for the Dodgers.

The veteran outfielder clobbered his 42nd homer of the season leading off the 12th inning Wednesday night to give Atlanta a 6-5 victory over the Dodgers.

That ended Los Angeles' eight-hour tenure as head of the torrid divisional chase, and put the Braves back into the lead—the role they had lost only the night before.

Actually, the Braves were the third team to lead the hot race at one time or another Wednesday.

Dropped to Second

San Francisco started off the day in the No. 1 spot, but was dropped to second behind the Dodgers after losing a 2-1 afternoon decision to Houston.

Then Atlanta's victory shoved the Dodgers from first to third, a half-game back of San Francisco and one game back of the Braves.

Cincinnati, meanwhile, is just a half-game behind the Dodgers after clubbing San Diego 10-5. All four of the leaders are even in the loss column, with 67 each.

Over in the NL East race, the New York Mets held on to their four-game lead by blanking Montreal 5-0, while second-place Chicago stopped Philadelphia 9-7.

Pittsburgh nipped St. Louis 4-2 in the other NL game.

The Dodgers, who had been only percentage points back of the West leader since the first of the month but never in first until Wednesday, used a two-run triple by Jim Lefebvre in the bottom of the eighth to tie it 5-5.

Eliminate mistakes . . . Shore up the defense . . . Get the offense moving.

Those three tasks are of major importance for the Neenah, Appleton East, and Appleton West football teams this week as each tries to bounce back from sound drubbings in their last Fox River Valley Conference encounters.

Of the trio, only West will be at home. The Terrors (0-2) have a Saturday engagement with Green Bay East (2-0) at Witte Field. At the same time, the Rockets (1-1) will be visiting Sheboygan South (0-2). The Patriots (0-2) will get a jump on their Fox Cities counterparts when they journey to Preble (2-0) Friday night.

In other FRVC clashes on the weekend, the state's No. 1-ranked Oshkosh Indians (2-0) invade Green Bay Southwest (1-1) Saturday while No. 2-rated Fond du Lac (2-0) entertains Green Bay West (1-1) Friday. Sheboygan North (1-1) goes to Manitowoc (0-2) in the circuit's remaining tilt.

Neenah coach Ben Meixl is hoping his Rockets can snap back from last week's 24-0 setback at the hands of a rough and tough Fond du Lac outfit.

Hope to "Explode"

"One of these weeks we'll catch on and explode," Meixl predicted, in reference to the Rockets' meager production of one touchdown in their first two ballgames. But first a few problems have to be ironed out.

"We had too many errors against Fond du Lac," he pointed out, "there was poor execution on offense. We weren't pleased with our overall performance."

If the Rockets are able to kick their offense in gear, then defensively they will have to concentrate on stopping South's running attack headed by Mark Boll. The Redmen have racked up 320 net yards in their first two games, and only 28 of those yards have come through the air.

Boll's contribution to date has been 161 yards in 32 carries, ranking him seventh in the league. Despite the good running game, the Redmen, too, have scored only seven points in two outings and last week suffered a 12-0 blanking from Green Bay East.

Preble Offense Leader

Del Prust at Appleton East must also ready his charges to hold off an opponent's crunching ground game. Preble is the conference's offensive leader at the moment with 593 yards in two games, and all but 20 of that total has come overland.

The Hornets can boast three

Conference Opener

Mustangs to Face Powerful Comets

BY JIM HARP
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

LITTLE CHUTE — It will be a little like David meeting Goliath Friday night when the Little Chute Mustangs make their debut in the Central Wisconsin Conference by facing high-rated Waupaca at the Comets' field.

The Mustangs, who are in their second season of football and first as members of the CWC, have a considerably smaller squad than the Comets. Going into the contest, Little Chute carries a better overall record, but the calibre of opposition has not been comparable to that which the Comets have faced. The Mustangs have a 1-0-1 mark while Waupaca is 1-1.

Pair of M-E Teams

Little Chute has recorded an impressive 44-12 victory over Iowa-Scandinavia and then last Saturday battled to a 6-6 tie with Appleton Fox Valley Lutheran.

The Comets on the other hand have played a pair of Mid-Eastern Conference teams, dropping a 16-15 decision to Clintonville and dishing out a 33-16 shellacking to Shawano.

In the loss to Clintonville, it took a last-minute gamble by the Truckers to stave off a late comeback attempt by the Comets. Waupaca trailed 16-13 and had the Truckers backed up to their own 4-yard line with 1:30 remaining. The Clintonville punter dropped back on fourth down as if to kick, but did not rushing and 68 passing (with five of nine completions).

Look who's sharing the Fox Valley Catholic Conference lead with almost perennial champion Appleton Xavier.

Manitowoc Roncalli, De Pere Pennings and Marinette Central — a trio of teams unused to such a rarefied atmosphere — own portions of first place, along with defending co-champion Xavier. Pennings and Roncalli failed to win a conference game last season, while Marinette, with a 3-4 record, finished in the middle of the 9-team circuit.

The number of co-leaders will be reduced by at least one this weekend, since Roncalli's Jets will pay a visit to Marinette Saturday.

Xavier will make its home debut under new coach Jerry Schmidt at 8 p.m. Friday against Oshkosh Lourdes at Goodland Field.

Chuters Duel Cadets

Three of last year's four FVCC powers lost their 1969 league openers and must start winning trends to retain hopes for title contention. Two of the first week losers — Little Chute St. John and Green Bay Premontre — confront each other in a battle for survival. Menasha St. Mary, which shared the '69 title with Xavier and Premontre, plays host to Weyauwega in a Saturday non-leaguer after having dropped its opener.

Xavier's win last Saturday over pre-season favorite Premontre amounted to a surprise even though it was the Hawks' ninth straight win in the series. Many observers felt that Schmidt, taking over the Hawk reins just a few days before the start of pre-season practice, couldn't get his system installed and coordinated in time to take the measure of a strong team like Premontre.

Schmidt, who lauded the effective blocking of his line and the hard-hitting play of the defense, is trying to protect his charges from a possible attack of complacency this week. He noted that Lourdes has been a "thorn in Xavier's side" a number of times despite last year's 34-7 Hawk win over the Knights.

Lourdes has lost two close games — an 8-0 non-league decision to West De Pere and an 8-6 FVCC verdict to Marinette. The Knights were out-gained by only 14 yards (157-143) by the Cavaliers. The remaining Clintonville Lourdes' offense showed quite a balance, with 75 net yards down as if to kick, but did not rushing and 68 passing (with five of nine completions).

FVL last Saturday, but coach Bill Fitzpatrick figures the Little Chute club could have won on the game.

A penalty nullified a pass play which was good for a touchdown for the Mustangs in the second half and on several occasions they drove deep into FVL territory only to be stopped on time on a fumble and another time by running out of downs.

A's Triumph Behind Hunter; Twins Absorb 6-4 Setback

BY DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer
Oakland's Jim Hunter, who pitched like a Catfish out of water, with relief support for eight weeks while Minnesota left the Athletics high and dry in the American League West, finally is back in the win column, winning the first time since July 24.

Hunter snapped a personal eight-game losing streak Wednesday night as the Athletics shaded Kansas City 3-2 in 10 innings and trimmed one game from Minnesota's commanding lead in the division title race. The victory, coupled with the Twins' 6-4 loss to California, left the A's nine games off the pace with 14 to play. The Twins' magic number remained at six, with relief support from Paul Lindblad and batting help from rookie Bob Brooks, the ninth that sent the tying run from Minnesota's commanding home, then leaving for a pinch hit as the A's broke the dead-lock in the 10th.

In other AL action, the Chicago White Sox swept a twin-night doubleheader from Seattle 6-4 and 2-1; Detroit whipped Cleveland 5-0 behind rookie left-hander Mike Kilkenny and the New York Yankees nipped Washington 2-1 in a game called after five innings because of rain. The Baltimore-Boston game was rained out.

Oakland led 2-1 in the ninth when Mike Fiore doubled, moved up to third on a fly ball and, with two out, scored the equalizer on Hunter's wild pitch.

But Bob Johnson, pinch hitting for Hunter, started the 10th with a single, Bert Campaneris also singled and after Rick Monday bunted into a force out at third Brooks broke the tie with a single.

It was the third hit for the 5-foot-8½ outfielder, recently called up from the minors, who had slammed his second major league homer in the third inning. Lindblad checked the Royals in the bottom of the 10th, preserving the victory for Hunter and clinching at least a second place finish for the A's.

"After 12 starts without a victory, I had some doubts I'd ever get No. 10," said Hunter, who hurled a perfect game last season for the Athletics against the Twins "When they tied it, I thought it was lost."

Romanian Cup Team to Have Aussie Coach

Hopman in Charge Of Squad Facing U.S. Starting Friday

CLEVELAND HEIGHTS, Ohio (AP) — Harry Hopman, the notorious Captain Bligh of Australian tennis took charge today as the coach and unofficial advisor of the Romanian Davis Cup team, seeking to wrest the trophy from the United States.

He ordered the Romanian locker room closed to newsmen. He took over complete direction of the challengers' schedule and discipline. He imposed a gag rule.

These were tactics familiar to the little, sandy-haired taskmaster during his leadership of Australian tennis during the last 20 years in which he won 15 times.

First Interviews
Hopman supervised his first interviews Wednesday although Romania's Davis Cup champion Jorge Kobzuc, a former Davis Cupper himself, and the secretary of the Romanian Sports Federation, Alexander Lazaresco were present but almost speechless.

"Do you think you have a chance of beating the Americans?" one of the players was asked.

"Don't answer that," Hopman interrupted tersely. "That is a question you may ask after the draw tomorrow."

The draw is scheduled at noon EDT today for the three-day series, starting on the Clark memorial asphalt courts at 1 p.m. EDT, Friday.

Bratkowski to Remain With Bays as Coach

which weighed in favor of staying in Green Bay. "I wouldn't want to be away from my family," he said, adding, "my children are in school and we have just built a new home."

Although GM Coach Phil Bengtson has declined to commit himself at this juncture, there seems little question about Travis Williams' starting status.

When the subject was introduced following the Packers Wednesday practice, Bengtson would only say, "I haven't decided yet."

Based on recent performances, however, the surging Road Runner is virtually certain to be jetting from left halfback when the Packers go in their highly important National Football League inaugural at Lambeau Field Sunday afternoon — for at least two reasons.

Primarily, of course, because he has earned the assignment following three explosive performances in succession, against the Cleveland Browns, Pittsburgh Steelers and Atlanta Falcons, in each of which he has contributed two touchdowns and other assorted heroics.

And, secondly, because incumbent Donny Anderson, although pronounced ready to play, has been troubled by a rib injury until very recently.

It would be the first starting role for the Californian who has made a dazzling turnabout this season after having been in something of an eclipse in 1968.

Just how dazzling is reflected in the final figures for the Pack's six pre-season ventures, from which they emerged with a 4-2 record.

Williams, a multi-muscled 6-1 and 212 pounds, averaged a push 7 yards per try while stacking up 329 yards in 57 attempts, including a 130 in a mere 10 attempts against the Falcons at Canton, last week.

That was the best day ever for the former Arizona State speedball, once clocked at a mercurial 9.3 seconds in the 100-yard dash as a junior collegian.

Previous Performance
Traveling Trav's best previous performance had come in the Packers' 28-7 bruising of the Los Angeles Rams in their 1967 Western Conference playoff, when he rolled up 88 yards in 18 attempts, 46 of them on a touchdown burst which served as a catalyst to the Pack that memorable afternoon.

It climaxed a lustrous rookie year for Williams, who flashed to four NFL kickoff return records, including an all-time season average of 41.4 yards for 18 runbacks.

Although his reputation has been made as a runner, particularly this season when he has learned how to use both speed and his blockers, the 23-year-old distance threat also has developed into a highly competent pass receiver.

He ranked third in the Pack's Grapefruit League statistics, behind only the gifted Boyd Dowler and Carroll Dale, with nine catches for 149 yards and a 16.6 average and 2 touchdowns.

NOTES and NOTIONS

Hit by the sophomore (or second-week) jinx, our predictions rate fell nearly 20 points to .686 (16 right, 7 wrong, 1 tie). The over-all figure is now 78 per cent (on a 32-9-3 basis). With a number of pro and collegiate teams entering the regular-season arena this weekend, a more challenging task than ever lies ahead.

Packers over Bears — This toughie brings together two teams that are remarkably well matched. After a few lackluster home performances against the Bears, the Packers are due for a top-level effort. When Green Bay lost to the Bears in an August exhibition game, its offense hadn't yet been coordinated. If the Bay defense can keep Gale Sayers within reasonable restraint, the Packers are capable of pulling out a win.

Oklahoma over Wisconsin — If the Badgers could open against anyone but a national power, their splendid sophrido and pitcher George Stone's run-scoring single.

Larry Dierker became the first 20-game winner in the history of the Houston Astros and Jim Wynn and Doug Rader backed him with solo homers in beating San Francisco.

Rader's homer, his 11th of the season, snapped a 1-1 tie in the eighth. Wynn hit his 32nd in the fourth.

Dierker, who has lost 10, escaped a bases-loaded jam in the first inning, then tamed the Giants until successive one-out singles by Willie Mays, Willie McCovey and Bobby Bonds produced the only run off him. Dierker was lifted for a pinch hitter in the eighth and ex-New York Yankee Jim Bouton finished up.

Each Get 3 Hits

Tony Perez knocked in three runs with three hits and Alex Johnson, Tommy Helms, Pete Rose and Woody Woodward each collected three hits in a 20-hit attack that spilled San Diego.

Jerry Koosman scattered six hits as the red hot Mets won their 12th in 13 games—and 28th in 35 starts—in reducing their magic number for winning the East title to 10.

Ron Swoboda's single and Wayne Garrett's two-run single netted the Mets three runs in the fourth, and they scored again in the seventh on three walks and a squeeze bunt by Jerry Grote and in the ninth on Al Weis' RBI single.

Bases Loaded Triple

Ferguson Jenkins lashed a bases-loaded triple in a five-run sixth inning, helping himself to his 20th victory, as the Cubs staggered to only their third triumph in their last 14 games.

Jenkins, who fanned six to break by one his own Cub season record of 260, became the first Chicago hurler in 50 years to post three successive 20-game winning seasons.

However, the Phils chased him in the eighth, when they erupted for four runs.

Ron Santo's two-run homer and Billy Williams' solo blast paced the Cubs' 14-hit attack.

Rookie Al Oliver's 17th homer—a two-run smash in the eighth—gave Pittsburgh its victory over the Cards.

UW to Have 3 Captains For Season

MADISON (AP)— Wisconsin's football team, which hasn't had a captain for a full season since 1965, was assigned not one but three captains for the current season by Coach John Coatta Wednesday.

The Badgers, who open Saturday against Oklahoma, had assigned different captains for each game in recent seasons.

End Mel Reddick of Chicago and guard Don Murphy of La Crosse were named offensive captains for the 1969 campaign, and tackle Bill Gregory of LeMarque, Tex., was named defensive captain.

Thompson No. 1 FB

The Badgers finished a two-hour drill Wednesday with 212-pound sophomore Alan Thompson the choice for starting fullback. Senior Joe Dawkins is the No. 2 fullback.

Wisconsin worked on protection for the passer, and Coatta said the club's defensive output "didn't move too bad."

Starting assignments for three positions in the defensive secondary apparently won't be filled until shortly before game time.

Six men competing for the posts are Harry Alford, Chuck Winfre, Bill Yarborough, Peter Higgins, Lee Wilder and Neovia Greyer.

Shutouts Open Touch Football League Action

KAUKAUNA — Lee and Sandy's Bar edged Shamrock Bar 6-0 and Joyce and Tuggy's Bar downed Rich and Sally's Bar 18-0 in opening games in recreation department sponsored Touch Football League play.

Joe Verbrick connected on a 50-yard aerial-run to Bob Verkuilen for the lone score in the initial frame of the first game. Although both teams threatened in other periods, neither was able to score with Gary Hurst, Bruce Vandenberg, Dick Tousey and Bob Verkuilen coming up with interceptions.

Joyce and Tuggy's scored in the second quarter on a 35-yard pass from Terry Kabat to Dick Fassbender and added two tallies on a 40-yard pass from Kabat to Bob Promer and a 50-yard aerial from Ron Vande Hey to Promer. Interceptions recorded were two by Gene Huss and one each by Fassbender and Roger Vande Hey.

The discussions and deliberations which preceded the five to two vote of the board of natural resources indicate that the support for liberalized trolling is broader than is indicated by that decision.

Endorsed Idea

The advisory Wisconsin Conservation Congress, for example, had earlier endorsed the idea of state-wide trolling authorization, with the exception of muskellunge waters. That position had been backed by the

Wisconsin OUTDOORS

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — State government sports fishing regulatory policy is moving steadily in the direction of allowing the motor trolling that is matter-of-factly accepted by most other states with a significant sports fishing resource.

The new state fishing code for 1970, recently adopted, will permit the use of motors for trolling in all lakes of 500 acres or more, with the exception of those that have been classified by state fishery managers as Class A muskellunge lakes.

But the discussions and deliberations which preceded the five to two vote of the board of natural resources indicate that the support for liberalized trolling is broader than is indicated by that decision.

Herbert Behnke of Shawano, a board member who offered the amendment for the 500 acre lake restriction, explained that he and others will be willing to modify their attitudes later on the basis of experience with the new order.

He suggested that the con-

Lourdes, on a 59-yard run, gained a total of 85 yards against Marinette, and Jamie Zahalka added 34. (The Knights lost a good deal of yardage trying to pass). Against WDP, Zahalka had gained 104 yards rushing.

Score on Passes

The Hawks scored both their touchdowns against Premontre via the aerial route. Joe De-gress name a special study committee to examine the issue for the next two or three years, and then bring in a report with its findings.

Under traditional Wisconsin rules, trolling behind a row boat has been permitted. But historically conservationists have looked askance at motor trolling as raising the possibility of excessive harvests of fish.

Noble, who alternates with Phil Gloudemans at a halfback, teamed with Ed Wenning on a 47-yard pass play. Ted Wenning threw a 17-yarder to Gary Nack, who led the Hawks in rushing.

The St. John-Premontre battle, Saturday afternoon in Little Chute, could be just as explosive as last year's meeting. The Cadets trailed, 12-0, midway in the third period but surged back for three TDs and a 19-12 victory.

Both teams will be looking for their first 1969 win. The Chuters lost to a strong Kimberly team in non league play and to Pennings last weekend. The Cadets bowed to a potent Chicago unit before losing to Xavier.

Last Saturday, surprising Pennings rallied behind the passing arm of Remy Stephenson to score twice in the final period for a 19-8 win over St. John. Quarterback Jeff Jansen scored for the Avitus Rippcoached Chuters. Leon Biesterweid, converted from tackle to fullback, and Gary Vandehey are St. John's chief running threats.

Kratzke Fires 9 Strikes in 278 Game

Gerry Kratzke's 278 game and Roger Loret's 665 series shared the spotlight in the Valley Classic League at Lakewood Lanes Wednesday night.

Kratzke, who wound up with a 627 total, started his big game slowly with two spares. However, he then rolled nine consecutive strikes before getting nine pins on the last ball.

Loret used top games of 257

Frank Ryan Joins Redskins

By SHEILA MORAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Vince Lombardi and Frank Ryan, a coach and a quarterback already etched in the record books, each will attempt comebacks with Washington as the Redskins open their National Football League season against New Orleans Sunday.

For Lombardi, it will be his first regular season game as

Frank Ryan

Redskins coach after a legendary career with the Green Bay Packers. For the aging Ryan, once a superstar, then a reject with the Cleveland Browns, the Redskins offer a chance to make it as a quarterback with a new team, even though he'll be only No. 2.

Ryan, a 33-year-old part-time college professor with a PhD in math, led the Browns to the NFL title in 1964, the Eastern Conference crown in 1965 and the Century Division title in 1967 during a seven-year career. He

Finland Will Honor Official Of Thilmany

Order of the Lion Will be Presented At Rotary Luncheon

KAUKAUNA — Paul West, 730 Grignon St., will be presented with the Knight First Class insignia of Finland's Order of the Lion by a representative of the Finnish embassy at a Rotary Club luncheon at noon Wednesday.

The award was authorized by Dr. Urho Kekkonen, president of the Republic of Finland, and is given for meritorious services in promoting relations between Finland and the United States.

West is vice president of pulp and paper production for Thilmany Pulp and Paper Co. His ties with Finland arose from a business trip 11 years ago. While in Finland, West made friends in the papermaking industry and has retained ties with acquaintances in that country.

Since then, the West's home has been an informal social center for visitors and exchange persons from Finland and Paul and his wife, Mary, have maintained the contacts through correspondence.

The Order of the Lion is an honor bestowed by the Finnish government for services to the country. Very few foreigners receive insignias in the order.

Bucks Have Physicals

Suspensions Confirmed, Alcindor Still Growing

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Lew Alcindor, a little taller than ever, helped the Milwaukee Bucks get the 1969 training season underway Wednesday.

The 15 men whom the Bucks have signed for the 1969-70 season passed their physical examinations in Milwaukee, then shifted to Milton College in Milton for today's start of workouts.

Alcindor, UCLA's All-America who gets an estimated $1.4 million for having joined the Bucks, was checked in at 7 feet, 1 1/2 inches.

The measurement may show up on the program as 7-foot-2. In any case, it confirms the suspicions of a team physician that Lew is still a growing boy.

"Actually, he was 7-foot-2 when we first measured him during the rookie summer camp," the medic said.

Alcindor's collegiate height had been listed as 7-foot-1 1/2.

It doesn't matter much of course, to the 6-foot-5 midgets who will be competing this year in National Basketball Association action against the Bucks.

Give or take a foot or two, Alcindor promises to be a threat—possibly the key to hauling the Bucks into championship position.

Milwaukee concluded its first season last winter as a last-place club, which ironically qualified the Bucks under league rules to acquire Alcindor if they could afford him.

The No. 1 draft choice said Wednesday he doesn't plan to be cowed by the challenge of pro ball.

Not Over-Awed

"I'm looking forward to this season, but I'm not over-awed," he said.

Only one 1968-69 starter is absent from this season's line-up. He is Wayne Embry, a veteran center who has retired.

Returning to the roster—having signed contracts just this week—are Flynn Robinson, the squad's best average scorer last season, and Jon McGlocklin, who chalked up the new club's highest over-all scoring total for the season.

The Bucks provide an atmosphere of youth. Besides Alcindor, the current crop of rookies includes Jack Lutz of Carthage College, Waymon Stewart of Lakeland College, John Arthurs of Tulane and Bob Greacen of Rutgers.

Returning Dick Cunningham and Rich Niemann, both centers, were rookies last year, as was guard Sam Williams.

and 253 en route to his league-leading threesome.

Four more keggers went over the 600-pin mark. Gib Nabbeled followed Loret with a 237-647 aggregate, while Bruce Blount hit 618; Joe Kambic, 615; and Jim Walters, 233-612. Trailing were Sam Handy, 598; Ben Lewandowski, 597; Hub Hielsberg, 591; Mike Simonis, 232-588; Ed Schroeder, 535; Chuck Roe, 235; and Bob Dorschner and Earl Mentzel, 225 each.

Glen Jansen socked a 636 series for the best performance in the Legion League at Recreation Lanes in Little Chute Wednesday night.

ry Thiel led the way with a 629 count, including a 235 game.

Following were Harold Nelson with 598 and Bud Giesbers 581.

Paul Seib powered a 235 game en route to 629 for the peak effort in the Fraternal League, Hahn's Lanes.

A 228-603 combination by Norm Jahnke was runnerup, while Wally Roblee and Jim Hauert slammed 589 and 578, respectively. Alden Fiedler came in with a 233 line.

LaPeau Raps 617

Darwin "Cookie" LaPeau cracked a 617 total, including a 233 solo, to highlight action in the Kimberly Classic League at Jerry's.

Dick Weyenbeck followed with a 228-595 aggregate, and Dick Van Hammond was next with a 234 and 590. Bob Phelan boomed a 582, and Dave Vandehey and Ron Busse each topped 581.

Harry Hurst's 617 set the pace in the Tavern League at Village Lanes in Little Chute. Marty Wyngard crashed a 579 for the second-best effort.

Shimek Crashes 602

The Merchants League at 41 Bowl saw Dick Shimek blast a 237-602 combination for honors. Norm Carlson was next with a 592 threesome.

High games were hit by Rodney Helms, 243; Tom Erle, 239; Jim Agen, 227; and Larry Koeller, 228.

Art Schuenemann, Sr., slammed a 582 count in leading the Veterans League at 41 Bowl Wednesday night.

New Orleans cut punter Tom McNeill to make room for cornerback-safety Carl Ward, who was obtained on waivers from Cleveland. The Saints said running back Joe Don Looney or Olie Cordill probably would take over punting.

Atlanta waived rookie tight end Rick White and claimed veteran tight end Ralph "Catfish" Smith from New Orleans.

Pittsburgh acquired flanker Don Alley from Baltimore and placed tackle Ernie Ruple on waivers to stay in the 40-man limit. Ruple was the Steelers' No. 2 draft pick in 1968.

Drop One Player

The Redskins will have to drop one player to make room for Ryan. They didn't say who would be cut.

Snead to Save Services of Two Top Golfers

Nicklaus, Sikes to Sit Out Opening of Ryder Cup Matches

SOUTHPORT, England (AP) — Sam Snead, the American Ryder Cup team captain, said today: "I'm holding my big boys in reserve"—and British fans started looking worried.

Snead left out millionaire golfer Jack Nicklaus and Dan Sikes of Jacksonville, Fla., from his team for the first of the four-somes starting today.

Snead said: "I would much rather have Jack in the four balls and the singles than playing alternate shots."

Today's matches in the 18th biennial Ryder Cup matches start with Scotch foursomes—players hitting alternate shots.

There were four such foursomes starting at 4 a.m. EDT. Set Lineup

The line-up for today's matches:

Neil Collier and Brian Huggett vs. Miller Barber, Sherman, Tex., and Raymond Floyd, Lake Havasu City, Ariz.; Bernard Gallacher and Maurice Bernbridge vs. Lee Trevino, Dallas and Ken Sili, Tacoma, Wash.; Tony Jacklin and Peter Townsend vs. Dave Hill, Jackson, Mich., and Tommy Aaron, Callaway Gardens, Ga., and Christy O'Connor and Peter Allis vs. Bill Casper, Bonita, Calif., and Frank Beard, Louisville.

Captains Eric Brown for Great Britain and Snead for the U.S. Open, the U.S. PGA and the British Open, was being held for the big push.

"He's the sort of player who can suddenly turn on the magic and make a magic rainbow."

The foursomes Friday add up to a best ball competition—in other words the player with the best score takes the hole for his team.

NEW YORK (AP) — Friday night televised boxing shows will return to Madison Square Garden in early December on a regular weekly schedule, calling for one show a week for 52 weeks.

Harry Markson, president of Madison Square Garden Boxing Inc., made the announcement of the return of the Friday television series which ran for 20 years from September 1944, to September, 1964.

The Garden said no final deal had been made with any network for the series at this time.

Parents of Students Hit Road Safety

No Sidewalks on Highway Near Little Chute High

LITTLE CHUTE — Village board members Tuesday night heard a request from a Cloverdale plat citizens delegation and the president of the Parent-Teacher Association concerning safety of children attending the new public high school.

A previous request had been filed with the board by school officials. Parents of children living north of County Trunk OO and west of County Trunk N expressed concern about heavy traffic on these roads and the danger to children forced to walk on the roads where there are no sidewalks.

Village board members explained that preliminary sketches have been drawn which call for installation of sidewalk plus intersection changes designed to reduce hazards. Plans also are being discussed for various types of warning devices to help slow traffic in the area.

Action on the improvement is slow because the project would be a joint village and Outagamie County venture. Board members agreed to attempt to hasten work on the project by contacting members of the county highway committee.

Members voted to update the ordinance to permit extension of sewer and water service to 13 customers living outside the corporate limits of the village as required by state law.

Bianchi Expected to Take ABA Coaching Job With Capitols

SEATTLE (AP) — Al Bianchi, former coach of the Seattle SuperSonics of the National Basketball Association, left Seattle Wednesday by plane for the nation's capital where the new coach of the Washington Capitols will be announced Thursday.

Earl Foreman, owner of the Caps, has scheduled a news conference Thursday morning at which time he is expected to introduce the team's new coach.

The Washington Capitols is former Oakland Oaks franchise recently purchased by Foreman, 7th, and the best Winneconne runner was Bob Romborg in last season as the Oaks.

Polar Bears Win in Cross Country Meet

WINNECONNE — Chuck Bergmann led a first through sixth place sweep for Hortonville's cross country team in leading the Polar Bears to victory over Shiocion and host Winneconne Tuesday.

Bergmann finished in 10:49.14 seconds faster than teammate Steve Bergmann. The top Shiocion finisher was Bob Cochin in 11:11.11.

Youth, Travel and Land Ideas Seek Your Cash

BY SYLVIA PORTER
Today's explosion of activity in areas ranging from home sewing to foreign travel has inspired today's high promoters to new heights of imagination and deceit — to profit from your eagerness to participate in whatever the action is. Yesterday's column warned you about questionable schemes; here are seven more.

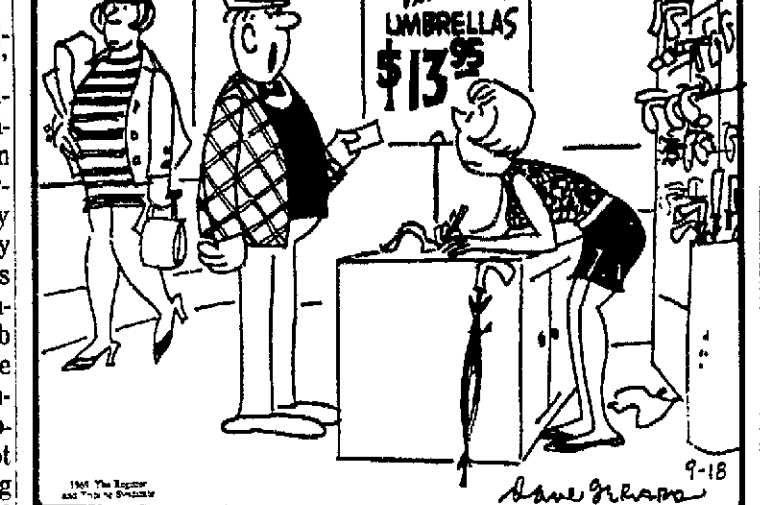

Porter
The youth boom has kept the "fountain of youth" operators thriving. Earlier this year, a promoter was forced out and London. Thousands of students of business by New York's Attorney General Louis Lefko- witz for peddling bottles of pills had failed to arrive at an advertised as "100 per cent guaranteed" to restore "full sex potency" within 10 days. When the law caught up with this peddler, he had sold 3,200 bottles of the pills, a vitamin supplement, at $5.96 each. Cost to him of each bottle: 24 cents.

The hot rod boom permitted one operator, who recently pleaded guilty in court, to advertise and sell $10,000 worth of a special car fuel. He never actually delivered any of it.

Travelers Stranded
The foreign travel boom has spawned a wide variety of snafus and deceptions in recent months. In some cases, buyers of package tours are led to believe a full range of meals and hotel accommodations are included — but they are not. As for snafus, a recent example: a series of charter flights scheduled for the summer of '69 between New York and London. Thousands of students of business by New York's Attorney General Louis Lefko- witz for peddling bottles of pills had failed to arrive at an

"With all the various taxes it's $15.37? Then your sign is misleading!"

One young Kentucky woman, mother of four, recently collected more than $5,000 from male correspondents whose names she found in newspaper lonely hearts columns. After corresponding with these men, she would agree to marriage on condition the men would send her "bus fare" amounting to, say, $100-$150 to bring her to the groom's home town. Once the money was sent, the "bride-to-be" disappeared.

Don't laugh at these gullible victims. No one had warned them, as you are being warned — and their very eagerness to believe made them vulnerable. Instead, take heed — and vow you won't let it happen to you.

Today in History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Today is Thursday, Sept. 18, the 261st day of 1969. There are 104 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1793, President George Washington laid the cornerstone of the U.S. Capitol building in Washington.

On this date: In 1759, the French formally surrendered Quebec to the British.

In 1810, Chile declared independence from Spain.

In 1850, the U.S. Congress passed the Fugitive Slave Act, permitting slave-owners to reclaim slaves who had escaped into other states.

In 1931, Japan began military occupation of Manchuria.

In 1961, U.N. Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld was killed in an airplane crash in northern Rhodesia.

In 1963, an Indonesian mob sacked and burned the British embassy in Jakarta.

Ten years ago — Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev, addressed the United Nations General Assembly and called for disarmament of all nations within the next four years.

Five years ago — Two U.S. destroyers in the Gulf of Tonkin off North Vietnam fired on and presumably hit what were believed to be four or five hostile ships.

U.S. Given 3 Choices On How to Reach Mars

By HARRY F. ROSENTHAL
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon soon will make a decision on the nation's goals in space, choosing from three alternatives—including two that would put Americans on Mars in the 1980s.

All three choices, made public Wednesday by the White House, foresee development of a space station and a reusable earth-to-orbit shuttle vehicle.

Under the first and most expensive option, the annual cost would climb steadily from the current $4 billion to between $8 billion and $10 billion for each fiscal year from 1970 through 1980 for a total of $78.2 billion. The Mars landing would be in 1982.

The second and third alternatives would keep the annual cost at $4 billion the next two fiscal years, rising to a peak of $5.7 billion in 1976. The second option, which envisions a Mars landing in 1986, would then rise to a peak of $6 billion a year in the early 1980s, with an 11-year total of $57.5 billion. Option three would require a funding of $5.1 billion in the first 11 years.

"We presented a balanced program," said Vice President Spiro T. Agnew—a member of the four-man task group. "My personal preference is option two which allows clear acceptance of a Mars landing in 1986 but leaves us free to be flexible in unmanned precursor flights."

The other three members said they had not yet given the President their personal choice, although all said any of the three would be acceptable.

Dr. Lee DuBridge, the President's science advisor and a member of the task group, said "in all three options there are from the scientific viewpoint very important benefits."

The report shunned two extremes—dropping all manned flights after the three-flights-a-year Apollo program runs its course—or starting a crash program to put men on Mars in the 1970s.

The differences in the timetable between options one and two can be seen in this comparison: Space station in earth orbit, 1976 and 1977; 50-man space base in earth orbit, 1980 and 1984. A 100-man space base in earth orbit, 1985 and 1989; a lunar orbiting station, 1978 and 1981; a lunar surface base, 1980 and 1983; initial Mars expedition, 1983 and 1986.

Option three would have the same timetable as option two.

but leaving the year of a Mars landing open.

The shuttle vehicle would be ready in 1976 under option one and 1977 under options two and three; and a "space tug" in 1978 under option one and 1981 under option two.

Under all three plans, Dr. DuBridge pointed out, a "grand tour" of the planets, by unmanned vehicles, would be scheduled for 1977 to 1979. The planets will not be aligned in a position to make such

The two men who do not face immediate trial are Chief WO2 Edward M. Boyle, New York City, and Sgt. 1 C. Alvin L. Smith, Jr., Naples, Fla.

There will be two separate trials of the six officers.

Eight congressmen on Wednesday asked Secretary of the Army Stanley R. Resor to take over the case. The congressmen said they feared the eight Special Forces men were being made scapegoats to cover up "mistakes, mishandling, incompetence and rivalries within the Army and related government agencies."

The Army has never publicly released any details of the case. Civilian attorneys for some of the men have said they are being investigated for the death of a suspected double agent.

Nixon Tells All Nations To Join Hunt for Peace

Blames Hanoi in U.N. Address

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — President Nixon appealed to the 126 members of the United Nations today to use their best diplomatic efforts to move Hanoi into serious Vietnam peace negotiations.

In a broad policy declaration, he told the U.N. General Assembly that North Vietnam was wholly responsible for the stalemate at the Paris conference.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko was among the 80 or so foreign ministers in the blue and gold hall for the President's first appearance before a global forum. When Nixon concluded his 30-minute speech, Gromyko joined in the applause which sounded through the jammed chamber.

No Surprises
The only sour note was a boycott of the address by the Cuban and Albanian delegations. Neither has diplomatic relations with the United States.

Mrs. Nixon, dressed in a pale green suit, listened attentively to her husband's address from a seat in the VIP section at the right of the rostrum. She sat with Mrs. Charles W. Yost, wife of the U.S. chief delegate.

Springing no surprises in his first speech to the world organization, Nixon again went on record as favoring sober and serious negotiations with the Soviet Union on the Middle East, arms race curbs and other topics.

Talk With Red China

And, he said, "Whenever the leaders of Communist China choose to abandon their self-imposed isolation, we are ready to talk with them in the same frank and serious spirit."

Looking toward broad international cooperation in areas ranging from population control, and space exploration to a counterattack against aircraft hijackings, Nixon asserted:

"... Let us press toward an open world—a world of open doors, open hearts, open minds—a world open to the exchange of ideas and of people, and open to the reach of the human spirit—a world open in its search for truth, and unconcerned with the fate of old dogmas and isms—a world open at last to the light of justice, and reason, and to the achievement of that true peace which the people of every land carry in their hearts and celebrate in their hopes."

Private Meetings

The President, accompanied by Mrs. Nixon, was making a quick roundtrip to New York from the capital, but staying long enough to meet privately during the afternoon with a number of visiting foreign ministers, and to entertain U.N. diplomats at an evening reception.

No formal conference with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko was scheduled.

In discussing Vietnam, Nixon once again said "our one limited but fundamental objective" there is to ensure South Vietnam's right of self-determination without outside interference. On that point, the United States will not compromise, he stated. As for lack of progress in Paris, he said:

"The missing ingredient so far has been the willingness of the other side to talk on any terms other than those that would predetermine the result, and deny the right of self-determination to the people of South Vietnam."

Once the other side is genuinely willing to reach agree-said, "The practical solutions can readily be found."

Then he voiced his appeal:

"This makes it urgent that the U.N. members who have long taken an active interest in peace in Vietnam now take an active hand in achieving it."

"In the name of peace, I urge all of you here—representing 126 nations—to use your best diplomatic efforts to persuade Hanoi to move seriously into the negotiations which could end this war."

The Soviet Union was taken to task by Nixon, for not yet agreeing to negotiations on limitation of strategic arms.

"The date we proposed for the opening of talks has passed for lack of response," he said. "We remain ready..." The United States had suggested an early August beginning.

Serious Problem

Picturing the arms race as becoming a more serious problem with the passage of time, Nixon conceded complex issues are involved. But he said: "We are prepared to deal with them seriously, concretely and purposefully—and to make a determined effort not only to limit

Deadlock Continues

Hanoi Raps Pullout Plan

PARIS (AP) — North Vietnam today denounced President Nixon's planned withdrawal of an additional 35,000 American troops from South Vietnam as a new but vain attempt to deceive U.S. public opinion.

The only way to peace is a "rapid, total and unconditional" withdrawal of all American forces, it said.

Col. Ha Van Lau, acting chief of Hanoi's delegation at the Vietnam peace talks here, said the exact number to be withdrawn was impossible to determine because of the Pentagon's own "contradictory figures" of U.S. troops in Vietnam.

In any case, Lau told the 34th weekly session of the deadlocked talks, the new withdrawal is "trifling" compared with the half-million Americans still in Vietnam.

the U.S. military occupation and prolonging the war."

"By withdrawing this new dribble of troops, the Nixon administration can in no way deceive American public opinion. In the contrary, it will meet with the ever-stronger indignation of the American people, including many in U.S. political circles, and it will further strengthen the American people's struggle for ending the war of aggression in Vietnam and for the prompt and total repatriation of the U.S. troops."

Lau again blamed Nixon for the Paris deadlock and accused the President of continuously intensifying the war.

Campaign Pledge

Recalling Nixon's election promise to end the war, Lau declared: "Eight months have elapsed since Mr. Nixon officially stepped into the White House. People in the United States and elsewhere wonder what he has done to bring an end to the U.S. war of aggression in Vietnam, a war which has cost the United States $125 billion and the lives of hundreds of thousands of young Americans and has by far surpassed the Korean War in terms of time, money and casualties."

According to U.S. figures, 38,593 Americans have been killed in Vietnam since Jan. 1, 1961.

U.S. negotiator Henry Cabot Lodge, the second speaker at the meeting, read into the record President Nixon's Sept. 16 statement announcing the new 35,000-man reduction in U.S. forces.

The statement "makes clear our desire to negotiate a peaceful settlement of the war in Vietnam," Lodge said. "We have gone far in opening the door to negotiations which could bring peace."

Open to Negotiation

B52 'Deal' Possible

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration is prepared to negotiate an end to B52 raids in South Vietnam in return for enemy steps to de-escalate the war, U.S. officials report.

The eight-engine, high-flying bombers are the most dreaded and least costly of American weapons being used in the war, officials say, and some believe the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong might be willing to pay a price to get the attacks stopped.

President Nixon suspended B52 raids for 36 hours last week at the end of a cease-fire called by the enemy to memorialize the late President Ho Chi Minh of North Vietnam.

White House sources said this week a major reason for the suspension was to make clear to the new leadership in Hanoi that everything in the war is negotiable except the right of self-determination for the South Vietnamese people.

Encouragement

The primary cause of the suspension was military, Nixon felt that if the enemy intended to prolong the cease-fire indefinitely he wanted to encourage it rather than take the initiative with new bombing raids which could quickly wreck any such attempt at de-escalation.

But Nixon's hopes, however slender, were quickly blasted as enemy troops resumed operations when the cease-fire ended.

Last week officials here denied any signal had been directed toward the enemy for which the U.S. expected a response.

Tuesday, however, in explaining President Nixon's latest troop withdrawal decision, White House sources said the B52 suspension definitely was a signal, one to which the new leadership in Hanoi might be slow in reacting.

Congress Told:

'Marijuana Laws Are Too Tough'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Drug abuse is primarily a medical and social problem made worse by severe laws with harsh mandatory penalties, say two leading federal experts.

They urged Congress Wednesday to abolish all mandatory sentences for possession and use of marijuana.

One of the witnesses, Dr. Sidney Cohen, head of the drug abuse section of the National Institute of Mental Health, went so far as to recommend the possession of marijuana—and such hallucinogens as LSD—be dealt with as misdemeanors, not felonies.

The institute's head, Dr. Stanley F. Yolles, said that in terms of ruined lives, the penalties for using marijuana are far worse than the substance they were meant to control.

The present law—which provides sentences up to 40 years for some offenses—has no provision for probation or parole in any cases except a first-offense conviction for possession of narcotics, marijuana or dangerous drugs.

In a strongly worded statement, Yolles said: "It is extremely unfortunate that by the continued, exaggerated empha-

Property Values Increase 9 Per Cent in Outagamie

Property values in Outagamie County jumped 9 per cent last year, the biggest single year increase since a complete reappraisal was conducted by the state four years ago.

Equalized value of all real estate and personal property in the county stands at $887,541,400, an increase of $74,042,570, according to figures presented to the county board this morning by the state division of assessments.

Equalized value is considered the estimated market price of the property.

The increase from 1967 to 1968 had been $46.6 million, or 6 per cent.

The $74 million hike in property values far exceeds state estimates made a year ago when they predicted an annual increase averaging about $50 million.

Real estate values continue to spiral although the increase in raw land has slowed somewhat. Value of all real estate in the county was set at $771,475,400, an increase of slightly more than $65 million, or 9.3 per cent.

The significant gains, however, were made in the villages rather than in the rural townships, as has been the pattern the last decade.

The Village of Combined Locks continued to show phenomenal growth, with its real estate values climbing more than 48 per cent. Despite a slight drop in personal property value, the total value of property in Combined Locks climbed from $27.1 million last year to $77.1 million this year.

Villages Grow

As a result of Combined Locks' growth, much of which was the result of expansion at Combined Mills, Inc., the eight villages in the county now represent 15.21 per cent the total county value, an increase of almost one per cent.

The 20 townships represent 26.03 per cent of the county's total, an increase of one-fourth of one per cent, while the four cities, in dropping slightly more than one per cent, still contain 58.76 per cent of the county's value.

Appleton's equalized valuation climbed from $374.5 million to $492.5 million, a growth rate slightly slower than the county as a whole. As a result, its value ratio to the entire county decreased slightly, from 46.05 per cent to 45.35 per cent.

The Town of Grand Chute, which has one-third of the total valuation of all of the townships, registered the slowest growth of any community in the county, with the exception of the Village of Nichols, at less than 4 per cent.

Crash Takes Life of Wisconsin Rapids Man

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The death of a college student has sent Wisconsin's 1969 highway toll to 782, compared with 832 on this date one year ago.

Donald Bergh, 23, of Wisconsin Rapids, a student at River Falls State University, was killed Wednesday night when the car he was driving went out of control and overturned on Highway 35 about two and a half miles south of River Falls. Three passengers were injured, two of them seriously.

"Sold" to the Highest Bidder will be heard at the auction Saturday at the Wolf River Crossing Park, Fremont, sponsored as a benefit for Boy Scout Troop 45. Shown with some of the 2,500 articles are Kevin Reichenbach left, with a wicker and china tray; Robert Stevens opening the glass door of a china closet, and Steve Kramer seated in a wicker chair at a coffee table with an antique tea pot.

State Mayors Crusade for Tarr Proposals

Froehlich Target Of Criticism During Visit in Appleton

A crusade of Wisconsin mayors came into the Fox Valley this week under the banner of "Target Tarr," but most of the shots were aimed at state legislators in general and Appleton Assemblyman Harold V. Froehlich in particular.

The mayors of Green Bay, Kenosha, Milwaukee and Wausau singled out the Republican speaker of the Assembly "because it is in his house where the cities have been getting the hatchet job."

The mayors, all members of the Wisconsin Alliance of Cities lobbying group, said they were working to build public support and pressure for legislative action on proposals by the Tarr Task Force on government reorganization and tax reform.

Changes in state tax distribution methods, annexation laws, and property assessing recommended by the Tarr group have been "languishing in committee," according to Mayor Henry Maier of Milwaukee.

Community Benefit
The Assembly finance committee is holding the proposals, which the mayors said hold promise for benefit to each of their communities and Appleton as well.

Maier was instrumental in bringing the state's major cities together in the Alliance a few years ago, and the Alliance in turn played a role in prompting the appointment of the Tarr task force, headed by former Lawrence University president Curtis W. Tarr.

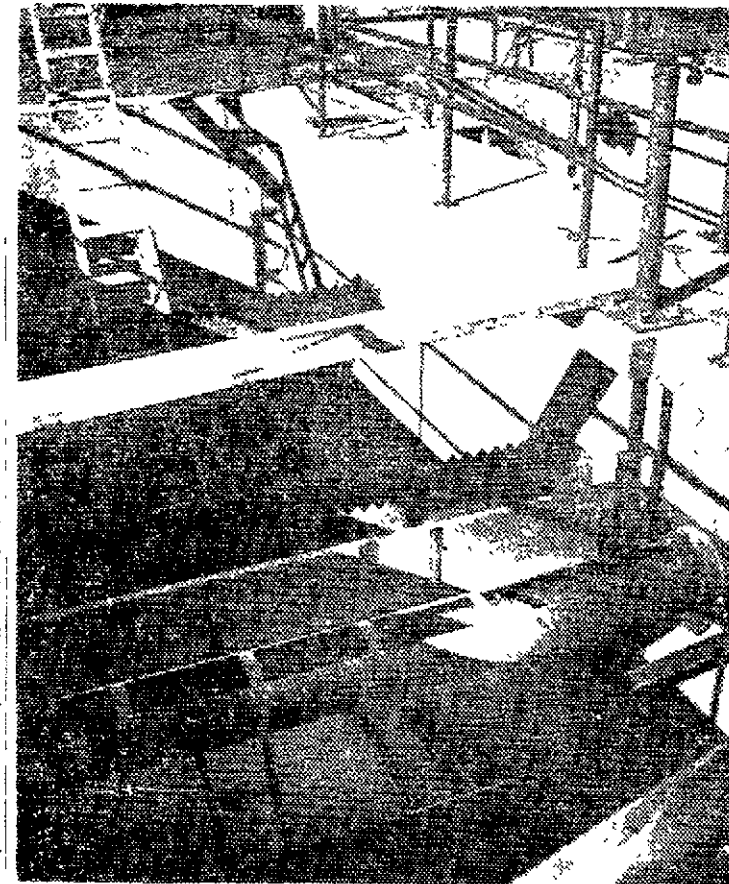

Maier speculated here that the proposals would "prevail by a handsome vote if we can ever get it out of committee."

Other Mayors

Maier was joined in a brief stop over here by Mayors of Donald Tilleman of Green Bay, Appleton to discuss re-districting of administrative districts, and Wallace Burke of Kenosha. Discussion will be on the possibility of creating five or six districts instead of the present eight.

G J Hipke pointed out that he "did not think Calumet County would be necessarily affected." The county is part of District 6 which includes 12 and went on from Appleton to speak to officials and news media representatives in Oshkosh and Fond du Lac.

The Legislature reconvenes later this month to discuss special tax legislation which Gov. Warren Knowles has urged for adoption. But Maier said the Tarr proposal "far over-shadows" the so-called "urban trailer" to the recently adopted state budget which Knowles is supporting.

Supervisors Meet

Calumet County To Study Petitions For Bridges Funds

CHILTON — Petitions for aid to county bridges for several towns which totaled $59,234, were referred to the finance committee for study and the highway commission to inspect at the Tuesday session of the Calumet County Board of Supervisors.

The Town of Charlestown will construct culverts for a total cost of $5,196. Other towns and construction costs are Town of Chilton, bridges, $35,338; Town of Stockbridge, bridges, $3,700; Town of Woodville, culverts, $12,526; and Town of Brillion, bridges, $2,474.

These aids are appropriated annually and the county absorbs half the cost and the individual towns pay the other half.

District Meeting

A communication from the Northeastern Wisconsin Regional Planning Commission was read informing the supervisors of a meeting this week at Donald Tilleman of Green Bay, Appleton to discuss re-districting of administrative districts. Discussion will be on the possibility of creating five or six districts instead of the present eight.

G J Hipke pointed out that he "did not think Calumet County would be necessarily affected." The county is part of District 6 which includes 12 and went on from Appleton to speak to officials and news media representatives in Oshkosh and Fond du Lac.

The Legislature reconvenes later this month to discuss special tax legislation which Gov. Warren Knowles has urged for adoption. But Maier said the Tarr proposal "far over-shadows" the so-called "urban trailer" to the recently adopted state budget which Knowles is supporting.

Supv Howard Schuchert stated that although Calumet County may not be affected directly, perhaps through the redistricting of other neighboring counties, Calumet could and should be watched very carefully. Supervisors generally agreed with Schuchert's sentiment.

Supervisors also authorized hiring an insurance counselor to look over the county's insurance policies. It was felt that in some places there is too much coverage, in others not enough, and in some areas no coverage. Insurance matters generally taken care of by the individual county departments which would cause duplication, it was pointed out.

Deputy Surveyor

The question of the appointment of a deputy surveyor was discussed with regard to a communication directed to the board of supervisors from the Technical Action Panel (TAP) of the county. The present full-time surveyor has been ill for several months, and the panel feels they have no one to do the county surveying.

It was noted that the surveyor must appoint his own deputy. It was further pointed out that, if more and more problems are killed Wednesday night when the car he was driving went out of control and overturned on Highway 35 about two and a half miles south of River Falls. Three passengers were injured, two of them seriously.

Rusch said that under the new county subdivision ordinance, roads must be four rods wide, and when these cross section markers are moved by construction crews, no one will come in and survey it because they have no marker for a "point of beginning." He suggested that the county board consider establishing permanent steel markers at these cross sections.

Not Interested
A communication from a Milwaukee firm inquiring about acreage for a land fill operation was read and ordered filed. Supervisors expressed no desire to have such an operation in the county.

Mileage payment for four junior conservationists who assisted the conservation committee in its work was authorized.

Clerk Donald Schwabe announced that it's time for budgets for the October meeting. He also informed the board that a personnel policy was being drafted which will outline the duties of all county employees.

The October meeting will be a two-day session for county board business and budget hearing, plus a third day for four of county road work and the Brillion Watershed.

Press Club Meeting
STEVENS POINT — Atty. Gen. Robert Warren will keynote the organizational meeting of the Central Wisconsin Press Club at 8 p.m. today at the Whiting Motor Hotel.

Waupaca Utility in Red Water Rates to be Raised

WAUPACA — After a review of the Waupaca Water Utility's existing rate structure and financial position by the Public Service Commission, the council voted Tuesday to put the utility on a sound financial footing and raise the rates approximately $29,000 for next year.

This will provide the utility with an approximately $29,000 for next year.

This will provide the utility with an approximate 6 per cent rate of return, explained Douglas Johnson, council president, and correct the situation which has existed for the past five years when the water utility has been running $4,000 to $5,000 in the red.

Orville P. Deuel, who made the survey for the city, proposed that the present public fire protection service charge of $16,727, be increased to $21,600, which is 29.1 per cent.

Minimum Charge
Minimum charges for each quarter for general service rates under the new schedule approved by the council are:

$4.00 for 1/2 inch, raised from $2.50
$6.00 for 1 inch, raised from $4.00
$8.00 for 1 1/4 inch, raised from $6.25
$11.00 for 1 1/2 inch, raised from $8.00
$16.00 for 2 inch, raised from $12.00
$30.00 for 3 inch, raised from $22.00
$48.00 for 4 inch, raised from $36.00

The firm will compile information on rock formations and basement depths prior to drawing up plans for the installation. Preliminary work is expected to be completed by Nov. 15.

A sanitary district commission has been formed and applications applied for to secure grants for state aid from the Department of Natural Resources and federal funds from the Federal Water Pollution Control Act.

The commission presently is preparing special assessments and rates for lateral and sewer hookups.

After the study is completed, a public meeting will be conducted to discuss the plans.

Commission officers are Gilbert Kester, president, David Zehner, secretary, and Wilfred Coenen, treasurer.

Chilton Council Approves New Sidewalks for City

CHILTON — Councilmen Tuesday approved a resolution calling for about 12,000 feet in new sidewalk construction of new sidewalks in various locations in the city.

A letter of explanation along with the resolution, will be sent to each of the property owners involved. Notices to repair or replace bad sidewalk walks also will be served on the city, was explained by one of the property owners who have not as yet completed their work. The deadline for construction of the new sidewalks will be July 1. Property owners will have 20 days back to the council for final approval to repair or replace bad sidewalk walks.

Bids were also opened for the sanitary sewer and water main construction. The bids for a new sewer line were authorized. The present car, it was reported, has 31,000 miles on it.

Councilmen also approved the hiring of a fourth policeman. Councilmen also authorized opening with two companies Harvey N. Koentopp, 22, New Holstein, recently discharged from the service, will fill the position.

Walter Muehl, public works director, was authorized to run a dye material in two sewer drains on Court Street to determine which property owner is causing raw sewage to run into the city. Two Court Street property owners each denied running raw sewage into the ditch. However, the city assessor was authorized to determine the possibility of the new Eagles building being put on the tax rolls. The building now is tax exempt since it is listed as belonging to a non-profit organization. The question arose because the building is open to the public for business.

Councilmen also authorized the new water tower which soon will be put into operation.

Hilbert School Inaugurates In-School TV

Board Votes Trial of Classroom Television On One-Year Basis

HILBERT — Inauguration of educational television through Northwestern Wisconsin In-School Television (NEWIST) in the public school system here was voted by the board of education Monday night, for a one year trial.

The programs are carried over WLUC-TV, Channel 11, Green Bay.

Cost of the programs, based on enrollment K-12 is $600. No capital investment is involved as the school has five television sets.

Elementary Principal Eugene Lakso explained that the "supplementary teaching tool" is of the highest caliber covering science, music, speech, language arts, reading and other subjects. It is for elementary pupils.

Board members said they had discussed the matter when the NEWIST programs originated and had delayed action pending the success of the televised education. They indicated they were satisfied with the reports received and favored augmenting education at the elementary level with the innovation.

Information Asked on State Suit

CLINTONVILLE — The latest action by the City of Clintonville on a complaint filed by the state of Wisconsin alleging fish losses in the draining of Pigeon Pond in July of 1968 was that City Atty. Ralph Lauer has asked to have the complaint made more definite and certain.

The city had interposed a demurrer to the state's complaint admitting the facts as charged but protesting the state has no "right of action" against the city.

Judge James H. Levi overruled the demurrer in Circuit Court at Wisconsin Rapids on Aug. 25 and gave the city 20 days to answer the allegation or take such other proceedings as the city deemed advisable.

The lawsuit, filed against Clintonville by the division of conservation, State Department of Natural Resources, charged the loss of 16,000 game fish caused by alleged illegal draining. The state is seeking $32,543 in damages.

Dellwood Mothers Club Will Meet Wednesday

CLINTONVILLE — The Dellwood Kindergarten Mothers' club will meet at 8 p.m. Wednesday in the kindergarten rooms.

The program will consist of an orientation of the parents by Mrs. Clifford Rafoth, teacher, and the installation of this year's officers.

Carl Richter, as television's "Granny," best woman's costume and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Herring, dressed as Ma and Pa Kettle who were judged best couple's costume.

Leaders Organized

Girl Scout Activities Scheduled at Brillion

BRILLION — Girl Scout activities for the year were discussed when leaders and officers met recently at the home of Mrs. Elmer Carpenter.

Some 100 girls have registered for scouting and meetings will start this week and next.

Leaders of 37 Brownies that will meet Wednesdays at St. Mary Catholic Church are Mrs. Carl Miller, Mrs. Charles Miller Sr., and Mrs. Charles Miller Jr.; Mrs. Glen Farrell and Mrs. Joe Gilsdorf, 11 fourth grade juniors, Tuesdays at St. Mary's; Mrs. Robert Brunner, Mrs. Carpenter and Mrs. Kenneth Geiger, 31 fifth and six grade juniors, Mondays at St. Mary's; and Mrs. John Erickson and Mrs. Kenneth Schneider will be Cadette leaders Tuesdays at the high school.

Swimming dates at the Chilton pool will be on the third Saturday of October, November, February, March and April.

Several leaders and Community Association members will attend the Manitou Girl Scout Council's annual leaders conference Oct. 9 at the Sheboygan YMCA. Registration is set for 9 a.m. with workshops and exhibits included in the day-long event. Mrs. Milo Cole, Manitou Council's consultant, will speak at the noon luncheon.

Brillion's Community Association members are Mrs. Ignatius Mollen, chairman; Mrs. Richard Sheahan, assistant; Mrs. Robert Endries, secretary - treasurer; Mrs. James Steinfest, troop organizer; Mrs. Willard Coenen, troop consultant; Mrs. Glenn Mott, registrar; Mrs. Allan Coenen, public relations; Mrs. Bernie Mullins, cookie representative and Mrs. Robert Brick, financial chairman.

Graffiti Wall Offered at New London

NEW LONDON — Senior high school students will be able to make graffiti scrawlings on a school building without fear of reprisal.

Numerals, designating the graduating class, have been painted on many surfaces in the city — mostly the reverse side of stop signs.

Supt. H. James Ramsdell and Principal Joseph Vander Zanden decided Wednesday the student's efforts should not go unnoticed.

A large "71" had been neatly painted on an equipment storage shed at the football practice field. The administration decided to offer the shed to students for them to decorate as they wished, provided they clean off the numerals and wording on other public property.

Vander Zanden commended the students on their fine spirit in helping to erase the scribbles on numerous areas of the city.

Judge in Milwaukee Weighs His Decision

MILWAUKEE (AP) — A 16-year-old motorist asked County Judge John Foley to be lenient with a charge stemming from an auto accident, but the account filed in court Wednesday indicated Foley didn't take long to weigh a decision.

"I'm only a child and not responsible for my actions," the youth said.

The judge's reply to the 268-pound teen-ager: "I thought you were a Packer draft choice."

Utility Official Retained in Post

NEW LONDON — Francis A. Werner, 804 Dickinson St., was re-elected to the utility commission Tuesday by the city council.

Werner, a member of the commission since its inception in 1936, is the president. He was re-named to a three-year term.

The utility commission is in charge of operation of the municipally-owned electrical utility and water department.

Street Fair Saturday

Farm Market Day Is Ready in New London

NEW LONDON — Plans for the annual Farm Market Day and Street Fair to be staged Saturday have been completed by the Chamber of Commerce retail committee.

The event will be centered at the First State Bank and city parking lot. Farm produce and handiwork will be displayed.

Food Stands

A food stand will be set up at the center by the Methodist Church and the Jayceettes will sell pie and ice cream. New London Junior Women's Club members will be selling home made pies.

Judging of produce and handiwork will start at 10 a.m. with Mrs. Evelyn Suomi, high school home economics teacher, judging handiwork and Donald Cutler, high school agriculture instructor, judging produce.

The chamber will award prizes for the largest apple, head of cabbage, potato, pumpkin, tomato, cantaloupe, watermelon, squash and the longest string of five ears of corn.

Six classifications of handiwork and aprons, knit gloves Mrs. Harvey Schroeder, co-chairmen, will follow up with a brooder items and winter boules.

All items to be entered for judging are to be registered by 3:30 a.m.

Nixon Falls Deeper Into the Vietnam Trap

Once more President Nixon has tried for a happy compromise in his announcement that 35,000 more American troops would be brought home from Vietnam by the middle of December.

It's difficult to determine whether the withdrawals are aimed so much at emphasizing that the South Vietnamese must take over their war and that the conflict must be de-Americanized — President Nixon's announced intention — or only to quell the once more growing opposition at home, especially on the nation's campuses. There may be two other considerations: one that the President Nixon wants to demonstrate further to the North Vietnamese his hopes to decrease the level of fighting to encourage more successful negotiations in Paris, and conversely, that the withdrawals will be slow until South Vietnam has a real fighting force which will make negotiations more difficult for Hanoi.

However, the way in which the latest withdrawals were announced, combined with the differences over the cease-fire, are quite likely to convince the North Vietnamese and National Liberation Front that the longer the war drags along, the worse are going to be the relations between Washington and Saigon. The Hanoi position in Paris has made a coalition, temporary government replacing the current Thieu-Ky regime as a pre-requisite to a permanent cease-fire. Up to now President Nixon, like President Johnson, has appeared to back completely the present Saigon rule. Despite denials in Washington, it is clear that the failure of President Thieu to broaden the appeal of his government through recent Cabinet changes, the dispute over the cease-fire and then Vice President Nguyen Van Ky's announcement in Saigon of the planned American withdrawals before President Nixon had said a word about them have all increased the antagonism. It may well appear to the leaders in Hanoi that the chances for a unilateral American withdrawal or some sort of overthrow of the Thieu regime are improving.

There has also been a certain amount of confusion over Washington statements and orders lately that seem to indicate something less than agreement within the Administration. The cease-fire reports trying to show unanimity were ridiculous to anyone reading between the lines of official communiques. The heavy bombing by B-52s right after the end of the Communist announced cease-fire, then the 36 hour moratorium and the resumption of the raids make little sense at all. We may suspect too that had it not been for Vice President Ky's announcement, President Nixon might have preferred to tell of proposed troop withdrawals in combination with reported planned recommendations on the draft. A package series of policy changes might have more of a chance of soothing the anti-war groups.

Moreover, it is the continued high level of American casualties for a cause that a great many Americans feel to be wrong or in any case a lost one that stimulates the opposition. The supreme commander in Vietnam, General Abrams, is reportedly firmly opposed to withdrawing more American combat troops until the South Vietnamese have ably demonstrated their own ability in the field. Since he makes the decision as to which troops are to leave, that is almost sure to mean that support groups, rather than infantry, will be going and the casualties will not decrease.

Former President Johnson, a master politician, became the unwilling captive of the war he was going to win in a hurry. Right now it appears that President Nixon may become a prisoner as well even through his announced intention is to get out of Vietnam with an "honorable" peace. That intention and his statement that he had a plan to get us out are reasons he was elected last November. So far the progress has been minimal.

The Middle East Crisis Deepens

To the outsider concerned about peace in the world and the fear that any conflict can spread, there is an immense feeling of helplessness over the situation in the Middle East.

In the last ten days the border skirmishes between Arabs and Israelis have increased in number and fury. Arab teenagers have set off bombs in Israeli diplomatic buildings in other countries while Arab guerrillas conduct raids across the Suez. Israel armored units have been attacking back and there have been a number of dog fights among jets. The Arabs do not want peace nor do they want to have to recognize the state of Israel. But the Arabs are not equipped to fight an all-out war with Israel so they stick to the guerrilla attacks. The Israelis presumably do not want war but they retaliate too fast to the Arab needles and so decrease the chances that the moderate Arab leaders will gain in stature.

In fact just the opposite appears to be happening. A moderate King was overthrown by the left wing in Libya. There was a reported move against Saudi Arabia's conciliatory leader and an attempted coup. Even in Tunisia, the realistic President Bourguiba felt threatened enough by extremist elements that he dismissed from his government the most liberal member to try to deter opposition. King Hussein must at least pay lip service to the extremists in Jordan. And President Nasser of Egypt seems to have emerged at last where he has tried so hard to be, as a major leader in much of the Arab land. He seems less inclined than a year ago to find a means of peace and agreement in the Middle East.

A major danger in the continued conflict is that the United States and the Soviet Union may be dragged in on opposite sides. Already Russia has been supplying the Arab nations of Egypt and Syria with modern weapons while the United States has resumed sales of arms to Israel in an effort to balance the strength while at the same time some arms agreement with Jordan has been maintained.

Not only the United States but the United Nations is pledged to the survival of Israel as a nation since it was the U. N. which created it. But at this time there seems to be no way of convincing the Arabs that they are not going to get back the Israeli lands and even many Arab leaders are losing control over the extremist guerrilla movements.

About all that can be done is to encourage the Israelis not to react too violently to the raids while maintaining a balance of military power in the Middle East.

Miss Devlin's Campaign

Bernadette Devlin, the Catholic member of Parliament from Protestant-dominated Ulster, came to the United States recently on a personal campaign to raise $1 million for the relief of Catholic victims of discrimination in Northern Ireland. But after appearances in major cities across the country Miss Devlin went home with only about 10 per cent of that goal, $95,000.

Actually, $95,000 is a respectable amount for one young woman to raise in a flying trip around the country, and while we are happy she was rewarded to this extent we cannot be sorry she didn't achieve her announced goal.

Many foreigners look to the United States as a country where money grows on trees. Miss Devlin now must have a more realistic appraisal of our largesse. We hope she comes to the eventual conclusion that the problems of Northern Ireland will be solved, if ever, by the people of Northern Ireland. And no amount of United States dollars will really be of much help.

Plea for River Improvement

100 YEARS AGO

Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for Sept. 25, 1869.

Cheap transportation can only be attained by the improvement of the State's rivers and lakes, for the shipping and carrying of freight.

There is no other way to head off monopolies, and to save the agriculturalists, and the working people, a portion of their hard-won earnings, but to open the water courses as channels of free trade.

The improvement of the Wisconsin and Fox Rivers is the first and leading work. With that completed its importance soon will lead to the improvement of other rivers.

For a work of public improvement there is no equal in the whole United States. There is no such thing as giving up or yielding. The Fox and Wisconsin Rivers must be improved.

Sex Education Courses Teaching What Children Learn on Own

BY WILLIAM F. BUCKLEY,

It is a pity that the discussion over sex education in the public schools is being ideologized. It is true that the John Birch Society has moved in, with the inevitable vulgarization of the issue. Mr. Robert Welch is quoted as observing that sex education is a "filthy Communist plot," but then so was Eisenhower. The proponents of sex education, needless to say, are delighted by the intervention of the John Birch Society. As things go in America, you could advocate compulsory courses in genocide, and move the intellectual communications network in defense of them provided you could guarantee that Mr. Welch would step forward to lead the fight against them.

The most incisive comment on the subject comes from Prof. Ernest van den Haag of New York University, who observes that the kind of thing most sex education courses are bent upon teaching is the kind of thing no one need seriously worry about our children failing to find out about all on their own. The principal organized lobby for sex-in-the-schools calls itself the Sex Information and Education Council of the United States, abbreviating itself as SIECUS.

It is a sure-enough lobby, which advocates that everyone who opposes sex education is a primitive, and that the mental and physical health of the nation depend on sex education in the schools. In any case, a few observations.

(1) What many parents fear, and quite rightly so, is that sex education is going to be received by students as a sort of how-to-do-it course. All the indignant protestations to the contrary notwithstanding, it is naive to suppose anything other. Not only is the teaching of explicit sex, of the kind that is intended to promote hygiene, and to avoid pregnancy, suggestive in the most obvious way, the teaching of it is sometimes of the kind that drives normal students once relieved of the moral albatross straight over to the field trip, for laboratory experiments. I know a most worldly gentleman of middle age who when shown a true-false questionnaire submitted to high school freshmen as a year-end examination, read through the questions and asked his correspondent to please furnish him with a set of the correct answers, so that he might enhance his own knowledge of sex.

(2) The principal sanction against sexual licentiousness is of course religious. The Supreme Court having ruled that religious education is unconstitutional, it becomes, theoretically, unlawful to put forward the principal sanctions against sexual wantonness. I do not suggest that these arguments, if they were put forward, would arrest the typical student's tomcatting: Kinsey wrote before Earl Warren. I do suggest that parents who do not believe that sex education is a Communist conspiracy do believe that the sexual experience cannot be understood except with reference to a spiritual dimension, and that dimension has been exorcised by a fanatically secularist society which is now engaged — again, notwithstanding the protestations — in promulgating sex as primarily a physical experience: another biological urge, the repression of which, or the mystification of which, is anti-scientific, anti-modernist, and therefore wrong.

(3) As a practical matter, knowledge about sex, as Prof. Van den Haag points out, is knowledge which young people will not do without. I do not have the figures, but it is safe to assume that the majority of those who contract venereal disease or pregnancy in fact knew what measures might have been taken to protect themselves. But sex is still enough spontaneous as to make ludicrous the notion that knowledge is wisdom.

(4) The reader availability of all kind of sex material, both the clinical and the erotic, would appear to provide anyone with the least curiosity in the matter, which is to say everyone, with an entire literature of sex education. The notion that earnest young matrons teaching 14-year-olds can preempt that source of learning is naive.

The Miami psychiatrist Dr. James Parsons persuasively warns against exciting latent sexual appetites in pre-pubescent, and might have added that to drill post-pubescent in the knowledge of sex is an exercise in redundancy which ought hardly to concern schools that are at their wits' end wondering how to find the time to teach their students how to read and to write and to multiply, on paper.

Wisconsin Report

Budget-Tax Debate Historically Has Been Time-Consuming One

BY CHARLES K. ALEXANDER

MADISON — When Gov. Knowles signed the general fund budget bill providing appropriations for the period which began July 1, 1969, and which will end on June 30, 1971, he expressed his dissatisfaction with the legislature's action by vetoing numerous items and by calling a special session of the legislature to consider some of the programs which he felt the legislature had neglected. A review of the legislative documents for earlier years indicates that very few governors have been completely satisfied with their legislature's spending authorizations and very few legislatures have been enthusiastic about their governor's spending and taxing ideas.

One of the few observers of the state government scene who has more seniority than Capitol correspondent John Wyngaard is Charles K. Alexander, co-director of the Wisconsin Taxpayers Alliance, who contributes a guest column today to substitute for Wyngaard who is vacationing. The Alliance during Alexander's association with it has become one of the most useful of the public affairs reporting organizations in Wisconsin and its publications are widely used by teachers and students.

Younger observers would lead us to believe that the 1969 budget battle was one of the longest and most bitter of the century. Since all the issues will not be resolved until the Oct. 7 sitting, it is too early to compare the duration of the 1969 session with former debates.

EARLIEST APPROVAL NOTED

The earliest approval since 1930 (that's as far back as the session laws of the Wisconsin Taxpayers Alliance library go) was April 7 in 1941; the latest, Sept. 28, 1935. The main budget enactment may not reveal the entire history, however. There are often supplementary budgets, as there will be in 1969 if Gov. Knowles has his way. An example was the supplementary budget approved on Oct. 20, 1939; the main budget received the governor's signature on June 6 of that year.

The books reveal some of the agonies governors and legislators go through in establishing the state's fiscal policy. The 1937-39 budget consisted of three parts: an "A" budget, representing basic appropriations; a "B" budget, containing supplemental amounts to be released by the emergency board if and when revenues became available; and a "C" budget, authorizing additional sums for construction based on the outside chance that tax yields would improve.

The total of all three budgets was slightly less than $96 million. In 1939, the legislators went home, leaving an anticipated budget deficit of $17.0 million, despite the pleas of Julius P. Heil that the legislature should face up to its responsibilities and enact additional taxes so that the "state could show a profit," as he put it.

PANZER BELIEF CORRECT

The legislature once stated (in a joint resolution) that the budget was balanced when it wasn't. This feat was engineered in 1953 by the late Sen. Frank E. Panzer, who felt the revenue estimates were too low and no new taxes would be needed. His predictions turned out to be correct.

In 1961, although the budget was approved on June 21, the tax battle over the enactment of a sales tax continued until the end of the year, with approval of the tax law on Dec. 28.

It is not certain what lessons can be learned from these excerpts from history. They indicate that the political conflict over the desire to provide an ever-expanding level of public expenditures and the fear of electoral consequences of increasing taxes is a never-ending one. Wisconsin has come a long way in the tax field in this decade from no sales tax in 1961, to a 3 per cent selective sales tax, to the current 4 per cent general sales tax, with intervening increases in income tax rates. Some legislators are questioning how much room there is for expansion in the Wisconsin tax system. These conflicts and doubts are at the root of the 1969 fiscal debate.

Strictly Personal

Why Is Car or Boat Referred to as 'Her'?

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

When you roll into a gas station and command the attendant to "Fill 'er up," it probably doesn't occur to you as being strange that you refer to your automobile's gas tank as "her."

This is because the tank is a part of another "her" — the car itself, which is invariably designated as feminine. So is a ship, a train, a plane, and even a toboggan.

English, of course, is one of the few Latinized languages which does not have masculine and feminine genders for all objects. In the French and Italian, every noun is either masculine or feminine; in the German, there are neuter nouns as well.

These grammatical genders have nothing to do with real sex, and never have had — in Latin, for instance, both "sailor" and "farmer" are in the feminine, although these are wholly masculine occupations.

When I first thought of this curiosity, it seemed that English might refer to ships and cars as "she" because of our lack of grammatical genders. Then it occurred to me that the French do the same — even when the object is normally in the masculine.

For instance, the word "ship" in French is masculine — but in referring to any specific ship, it becomes feminine, like "La Liberte." The crack French train, the Golden Arrow, would normally be masculine, but because it is the name of a train, it also is designated with a "la."

There must be some psychological need that corresponds to this grammatical twist, although I have spent several hours of pleasant research in books on linguistics, and cannot find even a recognition of the subject.

The only tentative reason I can assign to this freakishness is the masculine feeling that certain objects of motion possess a grace and a beauty that seem feminine.

And, since language is generally regulated by men, this habit of speech would tend to become a part of accepted usage.

Men obtain a keen pleasure out of owning or controlling vehicles on land, sea or air; and perhaps this pleasure is somehow comparable to that of possessing and subduing a beautiful and elusive woman. Or perhaps the whimsicality and occasional unreliability of such vehicles remind men of the variability of feminine behavior. This is a matter not for the grammarians, but for the deeper students of human motivations.

SIECUS Is Seeking To Supplement Parents

Editor, The Post-Crescent:

In reply to the letter of Mr. Don Krabbe, the "repressed parent of eight children" (Sept. 7), I should like to offer defense for SIECUS and the rest of the proponents of what Mr. Krabbe calls "the Playboy Philosophy."

Were I the standard writer of letters to newspapers, I would merely state that I doubt seriously that Mr. Krabbe is too well-informed regarding the aims of activities of SIECUS, suggest that he read some reliable articles about the Council before making generalizations, and let it go at that. But stopping there would be an utter waste of time and space. I cherish no hope of changing Mr. Krabbe's mind, and being publicly abusive serves me no purpose. This letter is addressed to those who are still undecided on the issue of "sex education." Let me confuse you with some facts.

First of all, SIECUS stands for Sex Information and Education Council of the U. S. lar to that of a firm of consulting engineers; to advise, when asked, local school officials in the construction of "sex education" curricula.

The issue, it seems, is one of in loco parentis. Opponents claim that parents should be able to teach their offspring all they need to know about the birds and bees, as it were, and that the schools should not encroach on that aspect of parenthood.

On this point, I could not agree more, in theory. But one must assume that all parents are competent to teach such things. The truth is, many parents suffer from lack of information and, more commonly, embarrassment. Look magazine quotes a school superintendent, "Less than ten per cent of our students have any meaningful discussions with their parents about sex." (Look, Sept. 9, 1969) This leaves nothing but good intentions, which never taught anyone anything. When an eighteen-year old girl writes to Ann Landers afraid of getting pregnant through her clothes, and a young man from Boise, Idaho writes This Week magazine, "...go ahead and let your son or daughter find out for themselves. You may never see your grandchild. My The council is composed of fifty professional people, physicians, educators, clergymen and psychologists; intelligent, educated, and human people. Their function is simple: parents never did." (Sept. 7), that indicates to me that parents are not doing their job. A good, comprehensive program of "sex education" can dispell some of the greatest fears that young people have; sensitively and competently.

If Mr. Krabbe et al are afraid that their duties as parents are being usurped, they are showing very little confidence in their influence on their children. If they take the Playboy Philosophy seriously enough to fear that their children will be led by it down the path of promiscuity and perversion, they don't have much confidence in the ability of young minds to discriminate between what is good and rational and what is garbage.

The purpose of a "sex education" program is not to take the duty of instruction out of the hands of the parent, but to augment adequate parental instruction and complete that which is inadequate. Think about it: when your six year-old comes to you and says, "Daddy, where did I come from?" what will you answer?

Outagamie Republicans Mourn Senator Dirksen

Editor, The Post-Crescent:

Americans everywhere, regardless of political persuasion, cannot help but feel a sense of personal loss at the death of Senator Everett M. Dirksen. Once again we feel the impact of John Donne's words written centuries ago: "Any man's death diminishes me . . . therefore never send to know for whom the bell tolls; it tolls for thee."

Post-Crescent readers might wish to read the following resolution adopted by the executive committee of the Outagamie County Republican Party on Sept. 9

RESOLVED: It is with deep regret that we note the passing of Senator Everett M. Dirksen, minority leader of the United States Senate. He served his party and our country well.

Everett M. Dirksen was admired by Republicans, respected by Democrats, loved by most Americans.

As a national figure he was a confidant of presidents, our

Editor, The Post-Crescent:

Assembly Democrat Gervase Hephner (Calumet County) would like to remind Mr. Froehlich that he said at the Green Bay Republican convention the Republicans alone could and would pass the budget, not needing the Democratic support. Isn't Mr. Froehlich now making the hypocritical statements blaming Democrats for the Republican passed budget? Next he will be trying to convince the people, Democrats voted for the budget.

Froehlich leads people to believe he is a conservative. An amendment I offered to the conservative budget to cut $500,000 was not supported by Froehlich. The conservative's budget is $49,892,400.

The largest budget ever in Wisconsin history of $1,562,014,000 Froehlich openly and actively twisted fellow Republicans to support it, forgetting the 1965 budget of $872,300,000, almost double to 1969.

If Democrats voted for almost doubling the spending in four years Froehlich would scream, "Democrats Are Big Spenders," now I claim "Republicans are Big Spenders, not Conservatives."

Froehlich admits the budget has things not desired by some Republicans. Why didn't he vote against then, and be responsible?

The Senate Democrats had earlier offered amendments to the original budget, each being defeated on almost party lines. Froehlich now says Republicans stood firm in the resistance to higher spending and by half-truths people must know that the compromise budget was unamendable. Yes, the Democrats will blame the Republicans for the 4 per cent general sales tax, they control the assembly, senate, and governor's office, not a Democrat in the assembly voted for the 4 per cent general sales tax budget. We should have annual budgets and tax reforms, and if the Republicans were not all power-minded and listened to some Democrats they would not be in the problems they have put the taxpayers and business people of Wisconsin in.

Crossing Guard Asks for Help From Drivers

Editor, The Post-Crescent:

It is the beginning of a new school year and people need a reminder. On behalf of myself and fellow crossing guards, I would like to say a few words about our job and what it means to us and your children.

We love children and are out to protect them while crossing busy intersections. Parents depend on our protection, and the children, especially the little ones attending school for the first time, think it is safe to step off the curb while we are there.

Some drivers do not seem to know that they can be ticketed and fined for not stopping for our stop signs as well as the stationary ones at the marked intersections.

Everyday since school began, at least one driver tried to pass my stop sign. One day a driver was lucky to have good brakes, or I wouldn't be here writing this article today. These are not teen-age drivers either, but adults with many years of driving experience who should know better. Everyone should take a lesson from the truck drivers who are a perfect example of what a courteous and safe driver is. In my twelve years as a crossing guard, I have yet to see a car driven (15) miles an hour through a school zone.

The crossing guards get few thanks, but it's not your thanks we want. Please drive carefully and make it safe for us and your children whom we love and try to protect.

Thank You,
Agnes Selig

Everyday Cleanliness Helps Stop Hepatitis

BY GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Avoiding hepatitis is, like treatment of this disease, lacking in any dramatic elements. But that's no excuse for not making use of the undramatic means we possess.

Since the disease is caused by a virus that inflames the liver, and this virus is mainly transmitted by food and liquids, we have the first clue to preventing it.

Plain, unexciting, everyday cleanliness is basic.

The virus thrives in sewage and human waste. Washing the hands before handling food is therefore important. I also get a need close supervision because good many letters from readers about drainage from septic tanks that seeps into gardens. That's one way the virus can spread.

Leaky Sewage

I know of more than one outbreak of hepatitis traced to old buildings with leaky sewage and plumbing systems. Once the disease gets started, it can sweep through whole families.

Seafood, clams and oysters, being prime examples, can spread the virus if they come from contaminated beds, and that is why the government prohibits taking such foods from certain areas until they are proved to be safe. (Raw sewage dumped into waterways is the usual contaminant.)

Those particular seafoods dumped. Stay away from beaches or streams when there is Theoretically, swimming pools might spread the disease, but the circulating, chlorinated and filtered water in well-run pools keeps this risk low. But let's not be careless about proper filtering and purification!

Other prevention? Some. Not a vaccine, though. Work is still going on, trying to develop a vaccine, but so far it has eluded us.

When hepatitis is found to be breaking out in a family, a school, or other group, gamma globulin may be considered — if given early — to help matters. It won't prevent the disease but into which sewage was being dumped. The most effective protection is in observing the rules of hygiene and cleanliness, seeing that septic tanks or other such sources of waste do not drain into rivers, wells, gardens, yards, basements. Keep household plumbing in good repair.

"Serum Hepatitis"

One item I have not yet mentioned. That is "serum hepatitis" as distinguished from infectious hepatitis. In that specialist should I go to? — A.J. form of the disease, the virus is transmitted through the blood — one of many reasons why blood or transfusions is scrupulously guarded and donors are carefully chosen.

Some cases have been traced to unsterilized hypodermic needles. Hepatitis is common — and increasing — among drug addicts. Because their nutrition is poor, death is not unusual. Incubation period for infectious hepatitis is from two to six weeks; for serum hepatitis, six weeks to six months. But the course of the disease is much the same in either case.

Construction on the First Phase of the Mt. Olive Lutheran Church-School complex will begin immediately. Located in Northwood Park, the initial phase, costing $466,000, includes a school, hall, offices, gym

Mt. Olive Expansion Is Started

The construction of the first phase of the Mt. Olive Lutheran Church expansion program, located in Northwood Park on Appleton's far northside, will begin immediately. The initial phase, which will include a four-room day school, parish hall, gym, pastor-principal office complex, and a home for the principal, will cost about $466,000. A parking lot for 100 cars also is included. Approval for the construction was given at a congregational meeting Monday. Expected completion date is fall of 1970. The second phase of the program will include a church, which will seat about 450, but no construction date has been set. The cost has not been established and will depend on the cost of labor and materials at that time, according to Lloyd Mueller, co-chairman of the building committee. The 5½-acre site is located on E. Florida Avenue and Doris Lane. Boettcher and Ginnow, of Neenah, the architects and William Tiede and Sons, Appleton, general contractors. The present church building, located at the corner of Franklin and Oneida streets, will remain in use until the second phase is completed some years from now. At that time, it will probably be sold, according to building committee.

FAA Says Relying on Radar Is Overdone by Most Pilots

By VERN HAUGLAND
AP Aviation Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Radar, the guidedog that takes a pilot by the hand and leads him to his destination, has been oversold as a safety device, say federal officials, who consider the overconfidence problem at most insoluble.

Like the guidedog, air traffic controllers say, radar can't protect from everything.

"It's as indispensable as X-ray is to the physician," one official said, "but it's not foolproof."

Federal Aviation Administration experts outlined the radar coverage problem—brought to public attention once again by the collision of a jet airliner and a light plane near Indianapolis Sept. 9, killing all 83 aboard—to newsmen on a nonattributable basis.

"If you are a pilot flying IFR (instrument flying rules), you get the illusion that with radar you are protected from everybody. You feel that radar is looking out for you.

"We in FAA have created that illusion—not deliberately—by calling out traffic to the pilot 50 times for every time he sees another airplane.

"This problem is well nigh insoluble until we get good collision-avoidance equipment."

The airline industry, which has had an active search under way for 14 years for a suitable collision avoidance system, is testing one device, developed by McDonnell Douglas Co., which may go into airline use as early as next year.

Would Use Computer

The system involves an airborne computer, transmitting and receiving equipment and a timekeeping device.

Signals sent out by such an equipped airplane give warnings to all other nearby aircraft of its altitude, direction and location.

The FAA currently has 90 air route surveillance radars—ASRs—feeding information to 28 traffic control centers. They have a detection range of about 200 miles and provide radar coverage of air traffic over most of the continental United States.

In addition, the FAA has more than 120 airport surveillance radars—ASRs—providing arrival and departure service for aircraft at major terminals.

The FAA published in August 1967, and reissues to pilots periodically, a circular advising them of the inherent capabilities and limitations of radar systems. The publication warns:

"It is very important for the aviation community to recognize the fact that there are limitations to radar service . . ."

The circular points out that radio waves, which normally travel in a continuous straight line, sometimes are:

1. Bent by abnormal atmospheric phenomena, which may cause many false blips to appear on radar, or decrease the detection range.
2. Reflected or distorted by dense objects such as heavy clouds, precipitation, ground obstacles or mountains, which may block out aircraft at the same range and greatly weaken or completely eliminate from radar planes at a greater range.
3. Screened by mountains or high terrain.

Must Segregate

Basically, the FAA says, the big problem then is to segregate visual and instrument traffic.

FAA officials say a new rule will be proposed soon to set up mushroom-shaped or "upside-

House Defeats Electoral Plan

Reform to Permit Direct Presidential Election Is Boosted

WASHINGTON (AP) — An electoral reform plan to let people vote directly for president has cleared a major hurdle in the House with defeat of plans to preserve the Electoral College in modified form.

With a 192-159 vote Wednesday, the House defeated a plan which would have given presidential candidates electoral votes on the basis of congressional districts carried rather than on the basis of states carried.

The proposal was the major alternative to the direct popular plan, which House leaders said may come up for a vote tomorrow.

Whatever proposal is finally agreed upon must pass both houses of Congress with a two-thirds majority before it can be submitted to state legislatures as a constitutional amendment. Final ratification takes approval by three-fourths of the 50 state legislatures.

Runoff Election

The popular vote plan eliminates entirely the Electoral College in favor of a direct vote. Should no presidential candidate receive 40 per cent of the vote, there would be a runoff election.

Representatives most fearful of tampering with the nearly 200-year-old electoral machinery came from the Midwest and South.

"If you approve the direct election plan you will be taking one more long step toward the destruction of representative government as we know it," said Rep. David W. Dennis, R-Iowa.

But the direct popular vote plan had the backing of both Republican and Democratic House leaders and they kept a majority of their members in line.

Rejected on a 98-65 vote was a proposal by Rep. Bob Eckhardt, D-Texas, which would have kept the present system, but required electors to cast their votes according to popular votes in their states.

Nixon Moves to Protect Rights of Negro Owner

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a major civil rights move, the Nixon administration has asked the Supreme Court to protect the rights of Negro homeowners prior to consideration next term to use community recreation facilities of a complaint by two families, one white and the other Negro.

The Justice Department, in a brief filed with the court, said an 1866 civil rights act guarantees Negroes not only the equal right to buy a house but the right to enjoy the side benefits that go with it.

"Community recreational facilities, especially swimming pools, are a major factor affecting the desirability and value of residential property," Solicitor General Erwin N. Griswold said in a brief.

"Poorer Bargain"

"The routine exclusion of Negroes from such facilities would both discourage them from buying in that community, and make any purchase they made a poorer bargain than state courts ruled against the white citizen could obtain if they appealed to the high court.

A year ago, the court held the Reconstruction era law barred discrimination in all housing, in sales and rentals.

The government said it would be inconsistent with this interpretation if "a Negro has the same right to buy or lease property as a white citizen but is precluded from enjoying it."

down wedding cake" control zones over major airport areas. These circular zones will be largest—69 miles in diameter—on the inside, and will funnel down to the airport. During the busier hours of the day, and below 10,000 feet, the zones will be restricted to instrument controlled traffic except for visual traffic given special clearance.

"The airlines say it's not enough, and private pilots oppose the restrictions. There will be a furor, but the regulations will be issued within a month if they are cleared."

Money Needed

FAA experts say the real problem is money. If funds were available, air travel safety could be improved greatly.

"There is $600 million worth of improvement that needs to be done right now," an official said.

"Airport work needed runs to several billions—from $3.5 billion to $7 billion.

"But for the past three years, as a matter of policy, the FAA has not asked for more instrument landing systems or more towers.

"These things are needed, but the Johnson administration defined a policy, which has not yet been changed by the Nixon administration, holding that aviation has grown up and the way to finance needed new improvements is by user charges."

Until user-charge legislation now before Congress is enacted, therefore, little of the moneys needed for air traffic control will be forthcoming.

"It's a political form of life," one individual explained.

Organized Labor's Split to Get Wider

WASHINGTON (AP) — Organized labor's worst split in recent times will widen next month when the AFL-CIO moves to kick out the International Chemical Workers for joining Walter Reuther's Alliance for Labor Action.

"It's a hard decision but there's no choice," said a high AFL-CIO official. "We're between a rock and a hard place."

George Meany, 75-year-old president of the 13.6 million member AFL-CIO, wants the Chemical Workers expelled as a lesson to the federation's 121 other unions that they can't have one foot in his camp and the other in Reuther's.

Long Attack

Reuther pulled his 1.6 million member Auto Workers union out of the AFL-CIO after a long attack on Meany's leadership and joined the 1.9 million member Teamsters union in founding the Alliance several months ago. The Teamsters were kicked out of the federation 12 years ago on corruption charges.

The split is the most serious in labor's ranks since the late Mineworkers President John L. Lewis formed the CIO in a break with the AFL in the 1930s.

The 110,000-member Chemical workers is the first, and so far the only AFL-CIO union to join the Alliance.

Meany views the Alliance for Labor Action as a competitive organization, damaging to the trade union movement. He is determined to nip it in the bud and avoid the 20 years of internal labor strife sparked by Lewis and the old CIO. The AFL and the CIO finally buried the hatchet in the 1955 merger.

"This is history repeating itself," Meany said in a recent interview about Reuther's split and formation of the Alliance for Labor Action.

The showdown over the Chemical workers will come next month at the AFL-CIO's convention in Atlantic City, where Lewis first sparked the formation of the CIO at an AFL convention in 1935.

"First Test"

Meany will turn over the direction of the Chemical Workers' expulsion to Lane Kirkland, his longtime executive assistant recently elevated to secretary-treasurer of the AFL-CIO.

"It will be the first test of Lane's generalship," the federation official said.

The trick will be to persuade other AFL-CIO leaders that expelling the Chemical Workers is necessary to prevent further defections, and to pin the blame for labor's new split on Reuther, not on the Teamsters.

Most AFL-CIO leaders believe the Teamsters have cleansed themselves of the corruption charges that led to their 1957 expulsion and want the powerful union back in the federation.

Reuther is co-chairman of the Alliance for Labor Action with the Teamsters' acting President Frank Fitzsimmons, who replaced imprisoned James R. Hoffa.
